How Incumbent Firms Navigate Nascent Digital Platform Ecosystems in the Internet of Things Daniel Hodapp, 2021-03-17 This thesis is focusing on three little explored contextual conditions that are important for a better understanding of digital platform ecosystems: digital platforms in a nascent stage of maturity, digital platforms built by incumbents and digital platforms embedded in the IoT phenomenon. Thus the thesis contributes to the question of how established companies navigate nascent digital platform ecosystems in the IoT. The work builds and contributes to the literature on digital platform ecosystems. Three main contributions are made through explorative qualitative research in the form of Delphi and case studies as well as through systematic literature research on the above mentioned themes. First, the thesis synthesizes important knowledge about the nascent stage of digital platform ecosystems and identifies value co-creation challenges specific to this early maturity stage. Second, given the increasing importance of established companies in the platform discourse, this thesis identifies the intra and inter-organizational challenges that incumbent organizations face in building digital platform ecosystems, emphasizing the importance of the organizational type in building a platform ecosystem. Third, the dissertation positions platforms in the IoT as a new digital platform instantiation within the scholarly platform discourse and outlines important phenomena related characteristics that determine value creation.

Cyber Persistence Theory Michael P. Fischerkeller, Emily O. Goldman, Richard J. Harknett, 2022 A bold re-conceptualization of the fundamentals driving behavior and dynamics in cyberspace Most cyber operations and campaigns fall short of activities that states would regard as armed conflict In Cyber Persistence Theory Michael P Fischerkeller Emily O Goldman and Richard J Harknett argue that a failure to understand this strategic competitive space has led many states to misapply the logic and strategies of coercion and conflict to this environment and thus suffer strategic loss as a result The authors show how the paradigm of deterrence theory can neither explain nor manage the preponderance of state cyber activity They present a new theory that illuminates the exploitive rather than coercive dynamics of cyber competition and an analytical framework that can serve as the basis for new strategies of persistence Drawing on their policy experience they offer a new set of prescriptions to guide policymakers toward a more stable secure cyberspace Children's Technology Review ,2005 TikTok User Guide Dennis S
