Moon-Face and Other Stories Jack London, 2018-08-15 Moon Face and Other Stories by Jack London Jack London was one of the most prolific American writers of the early 20th century and remains one of the most beloved but while his novels have remained continuously in print for a century his short stories have been much harder to find London liked to experiment with diverse subject matter and literary techniques In this collection originally published in 1906 he is successful on all counts These eight stories are well crafted vividly descriptive and suspenseful A few of the stories explore the psychology of murder and show the influence of Edgar Allen Poe as does the closing novella Planchette which deals with the supernatural The Minions of Midas is a tale of terrorism that s years ahead of its time The Shadow and the Flash is pure science fiction incredibly imaginative for its time and still exciting over 100 years later The only wilderness adventure story in this book All We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for you it becomes an enriching experience
