Scholarships Netflix Latest:

The Netflix Effect Kevin McDonald, Daniel Smith-Rowsey, 2018-02-22 Netflix is the definitive media company of the 21st century. It was among the first to parlay new Internet technologies into a successful business model and in the process it changed how consumers access film and television. It is now one of the leading providers of digitally delivered media content and is continually expanding access across a host of platforms and mobile devices. Despite its transformative role, however, Netflix has drawn very little critical attention far less than competitors such as YouTube, Apple, Amazon, Comcast, and HBO. This collection addresses this gap as the essays are designed to critically explore the breadth and diversity of Netflix's effect from a variety of different scholarly perspectives, a necessary approach considering the hybrid nature of Netflix, its inextricable links to new models of media production, distribution, viewer engagement, and consumer behavior, its relationship to existing media conglomerates and consumer electronics, its capabilities as a web-based service provider and data network, and its reliance on a broader technological infrastructure.

Indie Reframed Linda Badley, 2017-02-07 Explores the films practitioners' production and distribution contexts that currently represent American women's independent cinema. With the consolidation of indie culture in the 21st century, female filmmakers face an increasingly indifferent climate. Within this sector, women work across all aspects of writing, direction, production, editing, and design, yet the dominant narrative continues to construe an over-reliance on white male auteurs such as Quentin Tarantino or Wes Anderson as the face of indie discourse. Defying the formulaic myths of the mainstream, indie flicks and the ideological and experimental radicalism of feminist counter cinema alike, women's indie filmmaking is neither ironic, popular, nor political enough to be readily absorbed into pre-existing categories. This ground-breaking collection, the first sustained examination of the work of female practitioners within American independent cinema, reclaims the difference of female indie filmmaking. Through a variety of case studies of directors, writers, and producers such as Ava DuVernay, Lena Dunham, and Christine Vachon, contributors explore the innovation of a range of female practitioners by attending to the sensibilities, ideologies, and industrial practices that distinguish their work while embracing the space in which the narratives they represent and embody can be revealed.

Key Features: Covers American women's independent cinema since the late 1970s. Analyses the work of acclaimed but critically overlooked female practitioners such as Kelly Reichardt, Christine Vachon, Miranda July, Kasi Lemmons, Nicole Holofcener, Mira Nair, Lisa Cholodenko, Megan Ellison, Lynn Shelton, Ava DuVernay, Mary Harron, and Debra Granik. Distinguishes four different approaches to analysing women's independent cinema through production and industry perspectives, genre, and other classificatory modalities, political, cultural, social, and professional identities, and collaborative and collectivist practices.
