More Than Victims More Than Victims:

Robbery Victims Caroline Wolf Harlow, 1987 Female Victims of Violent Crime Caroline Wolf Harlow, 1991 Victims of Identity Theft, 2008 Lynn Langton, 2010 Approximately 11.7 million persons representing 5% of all persons age 16 or older in the U.S. were victims of one or more types of identity theft within a two year period. The most common type of identity theft experienced by 6.2 million people during the two year reporting period was the unauthorized use of an existing credit card account. This report is based on data from the 2008 Identity Theft Supplement ITS to the National Crime Victimization Survey NCVS. From January to June of 2008 the NCVS ITS collected data from persons who had experienced one or more attempted or successful incidents of identity theft during the two years preceding their interviews. Criminal Victimization in the United States, 1985 Burglary Rob Mawby, 2013-01-11 Burglary has all the credentials as the folk crime of the new millennium and is regularly identified as one of the crimes most feared by the public. Victims are particularly affected by burglary and burglary is generally at the centre of crime prevention and community safety strategies. This book provides an accessible systematic account of burglary focusing on the problem of crime in the first main part of the book and on policy responses in the second. This book identifies the particular characteristics of burglary as a crime drawing upon an extensive range of research in both the UK and elsewhere. It will be of interest to both students of criminology and criminal justice and practitioners in policing and crime prevention and it looks at burglary in both national and international contexts. Professor Mawby is particularly well qualified to write on this subject being involved in policy initiatives at local, national and international levels as well as being editor of a leading crime prevention journal. An accessible and authoritative account of one of the most important crimes and policy responses to it. Author ideally qualified in view of experience of local, national and international crime prevention initiatives.
