Hurt, 2022-06-20
 A machine gunner chronicles his time on the frontlines of WW2 from D Day to the Battle of the Bulge and the Wehrmacht's last stand. American machine gunner Ernest Andy Andrews arrived in the UK just before deploying to fight in D Day. Struck by a bullet in Normandy, he was evacuated to England before returning to participate in the race across France. Andy's squad defended a bunker in the Siegfried Line and fought its way through the Hurtgen Forest to take Hill 232. When the Germans attempted to retake the hill, Andy faced his toughest battle and suffered a shoulder wound. Andy rejoined his company in time to fight in the Battle of the Bulge and the Rhine campaign and in Germany's Harz Mountains where the Wehrmacht was trying to organize a last stand. Andy's outfit ends the war fighting in Czechoslovakia where Andy witnesses the German surrender. Following occupation duty, Andy returned to the States in October 1945. The war shaped Andy's postwar life in countless ways, and in 1994 Andy made the first of three return visits to the European battlefields where he had fought. This vivid firsthand account takes the reader along from Normandy to victory with Andy and his machine gun crew. Rum River Raymond Fraser, 1997 Deuteronomy Michael J. Molloy, 2009-08

 A compilation of true short stories through the eyes of a young soldier who arrived along with his comrades in Vietnam January 31, 1968. The Tet offensive. During that thirteen month tour, experiences of friendship and bonding as brothers was meaningful and personal. The price of war is deep, and lives with those who were participants forever in one manner or another. The Vietnam era was turbulent times, and any soldier or sailor who was fortunate to return home soon found a new reality to deal with. Twenty three years as a police officer in N.Y.C. is bound to contain events and characters during that time. As the key in my car was inserted into the ignition, the thought in my mind was always: Roy, you are now entering the Twilight Zone. Only another police officer or perhaps their spouse would believe the different encounters with the public or other officers themselves.
