Mark Answer

Carolina Herrera notes that Cuban-American writers who write primarily in English are dismissed from anthologies and analyses of Cuban exile literature on that account. She argues that since these writers were born in Cuba and consider themselves Cuban writers, they should not be ignored, and maintains that they represent a new phase of Cubanisms, one that is expressed in the language comfortable to its writers: English. Moreover, another writer notes that the Spanish and English traditions of Cuban-American writing have different but equally viable functions. The English branch seeks to create a distinctive culture of Cuban roots in the United States, whereas the Spanish branch wishes to preserve a specifically Cuban culture while seeking affiliation with the canon of Latin American letters.

Consider each of the choices separately and select all that apply.

The writers mentioned would probably agree with which of the following about Cuban-American writers?

- A. Contributing to a distinctive Cuban-American culture is a worthwhile thing for Cuban-American writers to do.
- B. If Cuban-American writers choose to write in English, preserving a specifically Cuban culture in the United States will become increasingly difficult.
- C. It is appropriate for Cuban-American writers who write in Spanish to seek affiliation with the larger canon of Latin American letters.
