

The background of the cover features a close-up, low-angle shot of a laptop keyboard, likely a MacBook, with its distinctive keys and trackpad visible. The keyboard is positioned in the lower half of the frame. Above the keyboard, the wooden slats of a ceiling are visible, creating a warm, textured backdrop. The overall color palette is dominated by warm browns and oranges, giving it a sophisticated and academic feel.

Perspectives On New Media New Byu Edition:

Religion Online August E. Grant, Amanda F. C. Sturgill, Chiung Hwang Chen, Daniel A. Stout, 2019-03-07 Religion Online provides new insights about religiosity in a contemporary context offering a comprehensive look at the intersection of digital media faith communities and practices of all sorts Recent research on Apple users video games virtual worlds artificial intelligence digital music and sports as religion supports the idea that media and religion once considered separate entities are in many cases the same thing New media and religious practice can no longer be detached this two volume set discusses how religionists are embracing the Internet amidst cultural shifts of secularization autonomous religious worship millennials affinity for new media and the rise of fundamentalism in the global south While other works describe case studies this book explains how new media are interwoven into the very fabric of religious belief behavior and community Chapters break down the past present and projected future of the use of digital media in relation to faith traditions of many varieties extending from mainline Christianity to new religious movements The book also examines the impacts of digital media on beliefs and practices around the world In exploring these subjects it calls on the study of culture namely anthropology to conceptualize a technological period as significant as the industrial revolution

Justices and Journalists Richard Davis, David Taras, 2017-02-02 A key intermediary between courts and the public are the journalists who monitor the actions of justices and report their decisions pronouncements and proclivities Justices and Journalists The Global Perspective is the first volume of its kind a comparative analysis of the relationship between supreme courts and the press who cover them Understanding this relationship is critical in a digital media age when government transparency is increasingly demanded by the public and judicial actions are the subject of press and public scrutiny Richard Davis and David Taras take a comparative look at how justices in countries around the world relate to the media the interactive points between the courts and the press the roles of television and the digital media and the future of the relationship

Power and Politics in the Media Robert X. Browning, 2023-12-15 Power and Politics in the Media The Year in C SPAN Archives Research Volume 9 features articles from multiple disciplines that use the C SPAN Video Library to explore recent controversies in American politics Topics covered include Supreme Court nominations Supreme Court oral arguments rhetoric on disasters and COVID 19 and the effect of clothing on the approval of women in power What unites these topics is the unique use of the video record of C SPAN to explore the intersections of politics power rhetoric and the media in the contemporary United States Written in accessible prose this volume showcases some of the most pressing issues today in a variety of political and communication issues while demonstrating video research methodologies

Constitutional Courts, Media and Public Opinion Angioletta Sperti, 2023-11-16 This book explores how constitutional courts have transformed communication and overcome their reluctance to engage in direct dialogue with citizens How has the information revolution affected the relationship of constitutional courts with the public and the media The book looks in detail at the communication strategies of the US

Supreme Court the Supreme Court of Canada and in Europe the German Federal Constitutional Tribunal the French Conseil Constitutionnel and the Italian Constitutional Court arguing that when it comes to the relationship between courts and the media different jurisdictions share many similarities It focuses on the consequences of the communication revolution of courts both in terms of their relationship with public opinion and of the legitimacy of judicial review of legislation Some constitutional courts have attracted criticism by engaging in proactive communication and therefore arguably yielding to the temptation of public support The book argues that objections to the developing institutional communications employed by courts come from a preconceived notion of public opinion It considers the burden the communication revolution has placed on constitutional courts to achieve a balance between transparency and seclusion proximity and distance from public opinion It puts forward important arguments for how this balance can be achieved The book will interest scholars in constitutional law and public comparative law sociologists historians political scientists and scholars of media law and communication studies
