The People's Platform

Astra Taylor, 2014-03-04 From a cutting edge cultural commentator and documentary filmmaker a bold and brilliant challenge to cherished notions of the Internet as the great democratizing force of our age The Internet has been hailed as a place where all can be heard and everyone can participate equally But how true is this claim In a seminal dismantling of techno utopian visions The People's Platform argues that for all that we tweet and like and share the Internet in fact reflects and amplifies real world inequities at least as much as it ameliorates them Online just as off line attention and influence largely accrue to those who already have plenty of both What we have seen in the virtual world so far Astra Taylor says has been not a revolution but a rearrangement Although Silicon Valley tycoons have eclipsed Hollywood moguls a handful of giants like Amazon Apple Google and Facebook still dominate our lives And the worst habits of the old media model the pressure to be quick and sensational to seek easy celebrity to appeal to the broadest possible public have proliferated online where every click can be measured and where aggregating the work of others is the surest way to attract eyeballs and ad revenue In a world where culture is free creative work has diminishing value and advertising fuels the system the new order looks suspiciously just like the old one We can do better Taylor insists The online world does offer an unprecedented opportunity but a democratic culture that supports diverse voices work of lasting value and equitable business practices will not appear as a consequence of technology alone If we want the Internet to truly be a people s platform we will have to make it so
