International Environmental Laws Controlling Transboundary Atmospheric Pollution in Southeast Asia - Rajawali Pers Dr. Sukanda Husin, S.H., LL.M.,2023-07-07 The issue of global warming and global climate change as mainly caused by transboundary air pollutants has emerged since the middle of the 1970 s To some extent the impacts of global warming and global climate change are still considered uncertain by a great many nations However several environmental catastrophes have been proved highly related to the release of certain noxious emissions creating global warming and global climate change Global warming is presently one of the most threatening environmental issues facing the world Although the uncertainty of the issue is still high the United Nations Organization based on precautionary principle concluded the 1985 Vienna Convention for the Protection of the Ozone Layer hereinafter cited as the Ozone Convention the 1987 Montreal Protocol on Substances that Deplete the Ozone Layer and the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change in 1992 ASEAN has not done much to implement the Ozone Convention and the Climate Change Convention in the region ASEAN tended to pass soft laws rather than hard laws to deal with transboundary atmospheric pollution especially resulting from land and forest fires The book is therefore necessary to examine a specific regional environmental policies and laws dealing with global warming and climate change in Southeast Asia ASEAN the Association of Southeast Asian Nations as a fairly big regional cooperation with a great many environmental problems is chosen as examples on how a region implements international treaties coping with the issues of global warming and climate change and on what prospects a region might have in tackling the issues

Waste and Discards in the Asia Pacific Region Viktor Pál,Iris Borowy,2023-06-29 This book uncovers explores and analyses the cultural and social factors and values that lie behind waste making recycling and disposal in the Asia Pacific region where impressive economic growth has led to significant increases in production consumption and concomitant waste production This volume demonstrates the immense scope of waste as a multi sectoral phenomenon covering discussions on food menstrual products sewage electronics scrap nuclear waste plastics and even entire villages as they are submerged underwater by dam building considered expendable in favour of economic growth It discusses the wide range of approaches and contexts through which people interact with waste including socio economic analysis participatory observation laboratory science art video installations literature and photography Case studies focusing on India China and Japan in addition to other regional examples demonstrate the ubiquity of waste materially and geographically They reveal the multiple sometimes contradictory dimensions of waste managing it can foster community building but can also exclude marginalized groups waste can trigger innovative economic concepts and practices but it can also pollute the oceans in large garbage gyres and it can wondrously change its nature from trash to useful components to new production before being discarded once again This timely and wide ranging collection of essays will be an important read for scholars researchers and students in sustainability development studies discard studies and social and cultural history particularly focusing on countries in the Asia Pacific Water

Quality Policy and Management in Asia Cecilia Tortajada, 2014-10-14 Asia's 48 countries have an estimated 1 757 billion urban population and 2 4 billion people in rural areas or approximately 60 per cent of the global population Divided into central eastern southern south eastern and western regions the continent is also extremely heterogeneous in terms of water quality conditions The policies and management practices vary significantly from one country to another and even within one country depending on specific economic political social environmental legal and institutional factors In order to appreciate the complexities associated with water quality policy and management it is important to acknowledge the multiplicity of interrelated and often conflicting events issues actors and interests both within and outside the water sector that impact them This complexity alongside institutional inability for systematic and coordinated collaboration are potent reasons as to why in the second decade of the 21st century formulation and implementation of efficient water quality management policies benefitting humankind and the environment have still not been achieved The book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Water Resources Development
