

Rural-Urban Migration in Bangladesh: A Micro-Level Study*

M. Z. Hossain

Associate Professor, Department of Statistics, Shahjalal University of Science & Technology, Sylhet-3114, Bangladesh

Introduction

A study of migration is of key importance in social science, particularly in population studies. The importance emerges not only from the movement of people between places but also from its influence on the lives of individuals and urban growth. Broadly migration is a relocation of residence of various duration and various nature. But, generally, rural-urban dominates the domain of research and planning as its role in changing the lives of migrant families both at the place of origin and destination.

Urbanisation has been one of the dramatic global social transformations of the 20th century. The accelerating rate of urbanisation is high among the least developed countries of Asia. For the period 1970 to 1990, the average annual growth rate of urban population was 6.5 per cent for Bangladesh, 3.4 per cent for India and 4.2 per cent for both Pakistan and Sri Lanka (Hugo, 1992). However, the urban growth rate is dominated mainly by rural-urban migration and it contributes between three-fifths to two-thirds of this growth (UN, 1993). Though the incidence of rural-urban migration in any developing country is higher, a distinct selectivity with respect to age, sex, caste, marital status, education, occupation etc., occurs and the propensity of migration differs significantly among these socio-economic groups (Lee, 1966; Sekhar, 1993; Yadava, 1988). Long rural development efforts neither could reverse the trend in rural-urban migration nor could it minimise uneven economic opportunities such as off-farm employment and earning (Robert and Smith, 1977).

Migration differentials have significant role in identifying the nature and strength of the socio-economic and demographic impacts of the population concerned. Many researchers have tried to establish some uniformly applicable migration patterns for all countries at all times. However, only migration by age has been found to be more or

Pattern of Rural Outmigration Najma Khan,1986 SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT OF FAMILIES THROUGH URBAN OUT- MIGRATION Dr. Sunitha V Ganiger,2020-06-11 Introduction Migration is a multi faceted phenomenon which is of vital importance in the process of economic development man power planning urbanization and social change Rao M S B 1986 It is a pragmatic and a ubiquitous phenomena as through out the globe we find that migration is contributing to the socio economic development which enables man to overcome the tyranny of political social economic and psychological fluctuations of a region Like for instance the partition of India and Pakistan was one of the major catalysts for migration during late 1940 s when millions of persons abandoned this land and migrated to Pakistan and vice versa Similarly of late many Indian computer engineers are migrating to western countries thus leading to brain drain which is causing a severe menace of the millennium Since time immemorial man has been ruthlessly migrating from one place to another and nowadays because of the increased transportation and communication man is more agile Thus migration is entirely determined by the human yearning for the decision to move Individual migration also brings changes in the process of family formation and growth Once migration has occurred from the land of origin both the household and the local population must adapt to the loss or gain However the impact of an individual migration on the origin depends on the duration of absence and remittances returned David P L 1996 India Migration Report 2019 S. Irudaya Rajan,2018-10-08 India Migration Report 2019 examines the issues of identity related to integration in European societies It examines the multifarious nature of social economic and political engagements of the Indian diaspora with their host societies in Europe This volume assesses the historical trends in migration to Europe mobility paths and transnational networks of skilled Indian migrants as well as recent tendencies in movements of migrants explores the roles of Indian migrants in transforming host societies with their skills and capabilities highlights their contribution towards the development of their homeland through knowledge transfer philanthropy capital flows remittances and investment takes stock of the impact of recent events especially Brexit and anti immigrant positioning of some political parties uses mixed research methods including ethnography key informant interviews and in depth case studies The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of development studies economics demography sociology and social anthropology and migration and diaspora studies Migrant Labour in India S. Conflict, Violence, and Development Patricia Justino, Tilman Brück, Philip Verwimp, 2013-12-12 This volume presents an innovative new analytical framework for understanding the dynamics of violent conflict and its impact on people and communities living in contexts of violence Bringing together the findings of MICROCON an influential five year research programme funded by the European Commission this book provides readers with the most current and comprehensive evidence available on violent conflict from a micro level perspective MICROCON was the largest programme on conflict analysis in Europe from 2007 2011 and its policy outreach has helped to influence EU development policy and supported policy capacity in many conflict affected countries Whilst traditional studies into conflict have been through an international regional lens with the state as the primary unit of analysis the micro level perspective offered by this volume places the individuals households groups and communities affected by conflict at the centre of analysis Studying how people behave in groups and communities and how they interact with the formal and informal institutions that manage local tensions is crucial to understanding the conflict cycle These micro foundations therefore provide a more in depth analysis of the causes and consequences of violent conflict By challenging the ways we think about conflict this book bridges the gap in evidence allowing for more specific and accurate policy interventions for conflict resolution and development processes to help reduce poverty in the lives of those affected by conflict This volume is divided into four parts Part I introduces the conceptual framework of MICROCON Part II focuses on individual and group motivations in conflict processes Part III highlights the micro level consequences of violent conflict The final section of this volume focuses on policy implications and future research agenda

In Search of Livelihood Yashwant Govind Joshi, D. K. Verma, 2004 Migration studies have been a domain of sociologists economists and geographers alike However interdisciplinary studies are few Based on the empirical data covering 1498 households from 100 sample villages this interdisciplinary study analyses the quantum nature and direction of seasonal labour migration from Chhattisgarh together with its effects on the society in general and the family of the migrants in particular Seasonal labour out migration is today a regional character of the area involving nearly a million population which barring few southern states moves nearly to all parts of the country The labour migration from this area can not be categorized as development migration based on maximization of the profit but is a part of household survival strategy of the marginal farmers and land less workers who are unable to find work locally from December to June Nevertheless migrating out for work has become an essential component of household economy for a large section of poor population and therefore it is necessary to change the attitude of both the media and administration towards migration which is erroneous called as palayan The study is quite comprehensive and analytical The recommendations are based on grass root realities necessitating the role of the state to act as facilitator to enable the workers to have a better deal and to reduce the problems faced by them Besides providing deep insight into this phenomena in the present context the study will be useful to various agencies involved in regional planning and human resource development
