Hot (broke) Messes Nancy Trejos, 2010-05-01 31 year old Nancy Trejos was supposed to be an expert on handling her money after all she is the personal finance columnist for one of the nation's leading newspapers The Washington Post But a few months ago she found herself in her own dire financial straits Faced with a mountain of bills debt and no way to pay her rent she was forced to call her parents to ask them for a loan That night was a wake up call she vowed to get herself out of debt and into financial solvency In Hot Broke Messes Trejos takes readers along with her on her journey She meets with a financial planner and a therapist to deal with all the issues young people face today from credit card debt and student loans to impulse buying and emotional spending to the cost of having a social life to buying a house with someone during a potentially impermanent relationship and more Trejos learns what causes these problems in herself how she can fix them and how she can pass that advice on to other young people going through the same experiences Even better she shows readers how they can address these problems without completely giving up their lives no give up your latte a day type advice here Trejos personal and unique voice along with her experiences that everyone can relate to will lead readers to relatively painless financial security

Atonement and Forgiveness Roy L. Brooks, 2019-07-02 Roy L Brooks reframes one of the most important controversial and misunderstood issues of our time in this far reaching reassessment of the growing debate on black reparation Atonement and Forgiveness shifts the focus of the issue from the backward looking question of compensation for victims to a more forward looking racial reconciliation Offering a comprehensive discussion of the history of the black redress movement this book puts forward a powerful new plan for repairing the damaged relationship between the federal government and black Americans in the aftermath of 240 years of slavery and another 100 years of government sanctioned racial segregation Key to Brooks's vision is the government's clear signal that it understands the magnitude of the atrocity it committed against an innocent people that it takes full responsibility and that it publicly requests forgiveness in other words that it apologizes The government must make that apology believable Brooks explains by a tangible act that turns the rhetoric of apology into a meaningful material reality that is by reparation Apology and reparation together constitute atonement Atonement in turn imposes a reciprocal civic obligation on black Americans to forgive which allows black Americans to start relinquishing racial resentment and to begin trusting the government's commitment to racial equality Brooks's bold proposal situates the argument for reparations within a larger international framework namely a post Holocaust vision of government responsibility for genocide slavery apartheid and similar acts of injustice Atonement and Forgiveness makes a passionate convincing case that only with this spirit of heightened morality identity egalitarianism and restorative justice can genuine racial reconciliation take place in America
