

The background of the cover is a surrealist painting of a city street. In the center, a man in a blue sweater and dark trousers walks away from the viewer. To his right, a woman in a yellow jacket and blue skirt walks towards him. On the left, a woman in a green top and red skirt is partially visible. In the foreground, a small white dog is walking. The scene is characterized by dark, swirling lines that seem to warp the perspective of the buildings and figures. The overall color palette is muted, with earthy tones and some brighter colors like the yellow jacket and red skirt.

The Architecture of Error Francesca Hughes, 2014-11-07 Why the rise of redundant precision in architecture and the accompanying fear of error are key to understanding the discipline's needs, anxieties and desires When architects draw even brick walls to six decimal places with software designed to cut lenses it is clear that the logic that once organized relations between precision and material error in construction has unraveled Precision already a promiscuous term seems now to have been uncoupled from its contract with truthfulness Meanwhile error and the always political space of its dissent has reconfigured itself In The Architecture of Error Francesca Hughes argues that behind the architect's acute fetishization of redundant precision lies a special fear of physical error What if we were to consider the pivotal cultural and technological transformations of modernism to have been driven not so much by the causes its narratives declare she asks as by an unspoken horror of loss of control over error material life and everything that matter stands for Hughes traces the rising intolerance of material vagaries from the removal of ornament to digitalized fabrication that produced the blind rejection of organic materials the proliferation of material testing and the rhetorical obstacles that blighted cybernetics Why is it she asks that the more we cornered physical error the more we feared it Hughes's analysis of redundant precision exposes an architecture of fear whose politics must be called into question Proposing error as a new category for architectural thought Hughes draws on other disciplines and practices that have interrogated precision and failure citing the work of scientists Nancy Cartwright and Evelyn Fox Keller and visual artists Gordon Matta Clark Barbara Hepworth Rachel Whiteread and others These non architect practitioners she argues show that error need not be excluded and precision can be made accountable

Paths to Contemporary French Literature, Volume 1 John Taylor, 2005-04-27 Although the great French novelists of the last two centuries are widely read in America there is a widespread notion that little of importance has happened in French literature since the heyday of Sartre Camus and the nouveau roman Some might argue that even well read Americans are ignorant about what is happening in European literature generally Certainly there has never been so few translations of foreign books in the United States or so little coverage of foreign writers Curious American readers need new up to date information and analyses about what is happening elsewhere Paths to Contemporary French Literature is a stimulating and much needed guide to the major currents of one of the world's great literatures This critical panorama of contemporary French literature introduces English language readers to over fifty important writers and poets many of whom are still little known outside of France Emphasizing authors who are admired by their peers as opposed to those with overnight reputations John Taylor offers a compelling insider's view The pioneering essays included in this book offer incisive analyses of the ideas motivating current writing and delve into a writer's or poet's entire output Although some names may be familiar Marguerite Duras Hélène Cixous Philippe Jaccottet Henri Michaux the reader obtains fresh reappraisals of their seminal work Especially noteworthy however are Taylor s lively introductions to many other key writers who either have not yet crossed the English Channel let alone the Atlantic Combating the notion that French literature is overtly intellectual inaccessible or interested only in formal experimentation Taylor shows that many French writers are instead acutely inquisitive about the outside world shrewd observers of reality even very funny Although not conceived as a reference book the volume possesses some qualities of a reference work a good bibliography reliable dates and biographical facts Paths to Contemporary French Literature will be of interest to students of French literature and culture literary scholars and readers of contemporary fiction and poetry

Stranger Than Fiction Edwin Frank, 2024-11-19 One of the Washington Post s 50 Best Nonfiction Books of 2024 A New York Times Book Review Editors Choice A Boston Globe Best Book of 2024 Ambitious intelligent and happily unpretentious Louis Menand The New Yorker Convincing idiosyncratic and often felicitous Alexandra Jacobs The New York Times Book Review A legendary editor s reckoning with the twentieth century novel and the urgent messages it sends How can we live differently a young woman urgently demands in Virginia Woolf s novel The Years It is the 1930s war and death are in the air but her question was asked again and again in the course of a century where things changed fast and changed all the time The century brought world wars revolutions automobiles movies and the internet votes for women death camps The century brought questions Novelists in the twentieth century had a question of their own how can we write a novel as startling and unforeseen as the world we live in Again and again they did transforming the novel as the century remade the world Imagine the history of the twentieth century novel recounted with the urgency and intimacy of a novel That s what Edwin Frank the legendary editor who has run the New York Review Books publishing imprint since its inception does in Stranger Than

Fiction With penetrating insight and originality Frank introduces us to books some famous some little known from the whole course of the century and from around the world Starting with Dostoevsky's Notes from Underground of 1864 Frank shows how its twitchy self undermining and never satisfied narrator established a voice that would echo through the coming century He illuminates the political vision of H G Wells's science fiction Colette and Andre Gide's subversions of traditional gender roles and Gertrude Stein's untethering of the American sentence He describes the monumental ambition of books such as Mrs Dalloway The Magic Mountain and The Man Without Qualities to rebuild a world of human possibility upon the ruins of World War I and explores how Japan's Natsume S seki and Nigeria's Chinua Achebe broke open European models to reflect their own distinct histories and experience Here too are Vasily Grossman Anna Banti and Elsa Morante reckoning in specific ways with the traumas of World War II while later chapters range from Marguerite Yourcenar and V S Naipaul to Gabriel Garc a M rquez and W G Sebald The story as a whole is one of fearless often reckless exploration as well as unfathomable desolation Throughout we discover the power of the novel to reinvent itself to find a way for itself to live differently Stranger Than Fiction offers a new vision of the history and art of the novel and of a dark and dazzling time in whose light and shadow we still stand
