

The background of the entire image is a traditional Japanese ink wash painting (suiboku-ga) depicting a serene landscape. In the foreground, a calm body of water reflects the sky and the surrounding trees. The middle ground features a dense line of trees, including several large, gnarled cherry blossom trees (sakaki) in full bloom, their branches heavy with light pink blossoms. The background shows more trees and a small, traditional Japanese building with a tiled roof, partially obscured by the foliage. The overall style is characteristic of Edo-period Japanese art, with fine lines and a focus on natural elements.

Peripheral Visions Joyce Bradshaw, 2006-11 I was born in New Jersey but I now reside at the edge of the Texas hill country I have written poetry since first grade and it was my poetic mother who taught me to be as concise as possible in my writing In the past most of my poetry has been freestyle moderate in length Recently however I have taken brevity to new levels by composing a great many poems in the form of haiku Some of the verses follow the traditional form with its seasonal context while others are conceived in the more modern style The beautiful countryside that I see from my front porch displays the wonders of God's creation The simplicity of life in this location and the changing moods of the natural environment inspire the special thumbnail sketches that characterize haiku International Directory of Little Magazines and Small Presses Len Fulton, 2001-10 This 37th Edition will continue to be an essential reference used worldwide by writers librarians students of modern literature and readers every where Len Fulton's legendary directory now includes over 5 000 presses and journals listed with addresses payment rates manuscript requirements and recent publications Subject and regional indexes are also provided Rethinking Japanese Modernism Roy Starrs, 2011-10-14 Edited by Roy Starrs this collection of essays by an international group of leading Japan scholars presents new research and thinking on Japanese modernism a topic that has been increasingly recognized in recent years to be key to an understanding of contemporary Japanese culture and society By adopting an open multidisciplinary and transnational approach to this multifaceted topic the book sheds new light both on the specific achievements and on the often unexpected interrelationships of the writers artists and thinkers who helped to define the Japanese version of modernism and modernity Specific topics addressed include the literary modernism of major writers such as Akutagawa Kawabata Kajii Miyazawa and Murakami avant garde modernism in painting music theatre and in the performance art of Yoko Ono and the everyday modernism of popular culture and of new urban activities such as shopping and sports How Latitudes Become Forms Vasif Kortun, Hanru Hou, 2003 The rise of globalism has created tremendous challenges to old economic political and cultural paradigms and these changes are reflected in artistic practices Disciplinary boundaries are crossed as easily as geographical ones How does the new internationalism that we are facing affect aesthetics and artistic production Is there a link for example between the rise of video works and the global availability of the digital medium Does the global information age facilitate an international language of art and an alternative reading of art history toward art histories From the perspective of a museum of modern and contemporary art the institution has to overcome a major contradiction between its mission of permanence and its mission of change How can cultural institutions contribute to the revamping of their own structures now that the hegemony of Western modernity is being challenged How can museums connect with new audiences through different practices different scholarship and different interpretative strategies growing out of the sedimentation of their histories To invite and encourage such dialogue How latitudes become forms art in a global age looks at current scholarship on globalism and
