Digital Technologies and Learning in Physical Education Ashley Casey, Victoria A. Goodyear, Kathleen M. Armour, 2016-11-10 There is evidence of considerable growth in the availability and use of digital technologies in physical education Yet we have scant knowledge about how technologies are being used by teachers and whether or how these technologies are optimising student learning This book makes a novel contribution by focusing on the ways in which teachers and teacher educators are attempting to use digital technologies in PE The book has been created using the innovative pedagogical cases framework Each case centres on a narrative written by a PE practitioner explaining how and why technology is used in their practice to advance and accelerate learning Each practitioner narrative is then analysed by a team of experts from different disciplines The aim is to offer a multi dimensional understanding of the possibilities and challenges of supporting young people s learning with digital technologies Each case concludes with a practitioner reflection to illustrate the links between theory research and practice Digital Technologies and Learning in Physical Education encourages critical reflection on the use of technologies in PE It is an essential resource for students on physical education kinesiology or sport science courses practitioners working in PE or youth sport and researchers interested in digital technologies and education

Tpack for Pre-Service Science and Mathematics Teachers Ayoub Kafyulilo, 2012-05 Scholarly Research Paper from the year 2010 in the subject Pedagogy The Teacher Educational Leadership grade University of Twente course Education science language English abstract This article is focused on unveiling the concept of TPACK in relation to teaching and learning in science and mathematics as well as the meaning of TPACK for pre service science and mathematics teachers training In describing this different literatures were consulted on the meaning of TPACK its origin and the way it can be integrated in pre service science and mathematics teacher preparation It was noted from literature that TPACK is the core of good teaching with technology and that it is important for teachers to have an understanding of TPACK Studies further show that the way pre service teachers are taught to integrate technology pedagogy and content is the same way they can implement the approach in their own teaching In addition studies argue for pre service teachers to learn on how technology can help to enhance students learning in science and mathematics rather than learning how to teach technology Different frameworks have been proposed on how to shift from teaching technology to using technology to enhance learning For example some studies provide the curricular plans for developing pre service teachers competencies of integrating technology pedagogy and content To enhance pre service teachers competency in technology integrations some studies have reported the need for pre service science and mathematics teachers to engage in the hands on activities that reflect the real teaching with technology Example of hands activities proposed in most studies includes planning of a lesson presenting it to peers getting critics from peers and re planning it again The cyclic development of the lesson is reported to enhance pre service teachers competency in working with technology in a real classroom situation It is therefore concluded that implementation
