performer switches it for the much less expensive real book since he can get it for this purpose in bulk at decent prices Bare bones presentation Book is introduced Its existence on Amazon and other stores is highlighted Person thinks of a page turns to it with the performer facing away The person is then told to read the first full sentence on that page to himself herself Person focuses on the sentence and then on a word that is easy to picture in the sentence Performer faces away all the time draws a heart and then reveals the heart to the person and the audience Method You use a book that is gimmicked in a way It is a version of a real novel but one where sentences were written in on the beginning of each page first full sentence to contain the word heart These sentences fit the story perfectly In fact they were edited by Anna Zaires the author of the actual novel Thus the book can be examined very closely before the effect After the effect however I strongly recommend putting the book out of sight and or switching it for the original un gimmicked version I usually give away a copy of an un gimmicked book at every performance My switch is super simple as part of the presentation I have the book put into a bag Then when I do the giveaway I give away the real un gimmicked version I have also used switch bags and other method for switching During a formal show no one ever asks to examine the book after the effect but during close up they sometimes do and I use one of the methods mentioned Subtleties This book has sexual content think fifty shades of gray so I often say if the page you open to happens to have something embarrassing on it just choose another This emphasizes the freedom of choice of page and how regular the book is why would you ever put sex scenes into a trick book When drawing the heart I first often draw something that looks like heart rate monitor output It helps disguise what I am drawing plus it can be part of the revelation because very many sentences in the book deal with heart beating faster in some way I put a period after Volume I on page 1 of the gimmicked book for easy way to check which of the 2 I am holding Cassia's location Priya pulled out a small weapon from under her cloak and aimed it at the far wall. The air shimmered as a portal appeared. You have a matter transporter, Cassia asked in disbelief. Non-citizens are forbidden from using such technology. This one was borrowed. I've changed its signature and erased all tracking. But that's punishable by death. Then I'll make sure I'm never caught. Priya replied. Soldiers began breaking through the door's security. Priya pulled Cassia and Jai through the portal just as it collapsed behind them. As they traveled, the atmosphere compressed around them, creating a vacuum sensation as freezing energy carried them through space. They reappeared in a lush forest bathed in purple light. Crystal-like snow drifted from the sky toward an amazing mountain that disappeared into clouds. Priya led them to an ancient gate made of rare metal. She typed in a sequence of codes, and the gate swung open, then sealed automatically behind them. A large door appeared in the crystal rock face. Priya raised her hand, tracing ancient symbols across the black surface. Glowing writing appeared across the wall, pulsing with inner light. Priya spoke words in a language Cassia's translator couldn't understand. Before her eyes, the door dissolved, revealing an entry way to a vast underground city full of life and architecture unlike anything in imperial records. What is this place, Cassia whispered as they stepped through and descended a ramp. A sanctuary for the gifted non-citizens who preserve the ancient ways. Who are these gifted ones, Cassia asked, her voice barely audible. The Faal Berwaran Ingenian Zerloni and Ethryan. This is where we nurture and protect the powers of Varu. Cassia looked at the hidden city with growing wonder. But practicing the old arts outside approved areas is punishable by death. Priya made a dismissive sound. Your empire makes laws we refuse to follow. Imperial citizens are forbidden here except for you and your son. Why make this exception? Mother Predictor's vision revealed more than I first told you. What else did she see, Cassia asked carefully, still reeling from shock yet unable to deny what was before her. She witnessed centuries of war ending in the empire's fall and the beginning of a new age. Cassia shook her head in disbelief. That's impossible. The empire has existed since before recorded history established when the three suns first aligned. What does this have to do with my family? With Theon. Her voice broke as fresh tears ran down her cheeks. Mother saw the empire fall at the hands of someone bearing the electrum gene, one of Jai's descendants. That's why preserving the bloodline is our highest priority. None of this makes sense, Cassia murmured as they entered a massive cathedral-like dome. The space lit up around them, ancient writing appearing in the air as if written by an invisible hand. The glowing particles arranged themselves into prophecies older than the empire itself. What is this sanctuary, Cassia gasped. Priya's expression softened. Dr. Cassia, welcome to the hidden city of Key. As predicted with the destruction of House Unitas, the Friven Empire fell into four centuries of tyrannical darkness. Eventually, the population forgot there had ever been an eleventh house. Yet in the spaces where memories survive, a single prophecy remained: a promise of a golden age to come. This sacred knowledge was not given to the powerful or the elite. Instead, it passed through the ancient teachings of the wise, nurtured by the exiled and protected by those with the courage to defy the empire.
