Mother Trouble Miranda J. Brady, 2024-10-01 Mother Trouble traces white maternal angst in popular culture across a span of more than fifty years from the iconic Rosemary's Baby to anti-vaxx mom memes and HGTV shows. The book narrows in on popular media to think about white maternal angst as a manifestation of feminism's unrealized possibilities and continued omissions since the second wave. It interrogates intersecting systems of power which make mothers and their children the most impoverished people in the world and urges a greater appreciation in academic and popular thinking of the work that mothers do. The book calls for an analytical expansion beyond gender to better address the erasure of reproductive labour and especially that performed by migrants and people of colour. It illustrates the continued marginalization of racialized mothers and the disproportionate amount of labour performed by all mothers in a society where their work is devalued. Ultimately Mother Trouble reveals how the unease around white motherhood in the media has become a proxy for the troubles faced by all mothers. Hospitality and Travel Marketing Alastair M. Morrison, 2022-10-27 Fully revised and updated for its fifth edition. Hospitality and Travel Marketing provides students with an international and systematic approach to hospitality and travel marketing structured around planning, research, implementation, control, and evaluation. Written in a user-friendly style and structured in a logical and organized manner to aid learning, students benefit from the ease of communication, practical nature, and excellent use of relevant and up-to-date cases. The author's global experience in the industry is emphasized through content on hospitality and travel marketing and other parts of tourism along with a plethora of timely and relevant real-life case examples from around the world. This new fifth edition is positioned as a post-COVID 19 text reflecting the new realities of marketing after the pandemic and has been updated to reflect these current trends in the field including e-marketing, mobile marketing, societal marketing, and destination branding. It specifically has been updated by including three new technology chapters on e-marketing, marketing on social media platforms, electronic customer relationship management (eCRM), and customer co-creation in marketing. A new chapter on social responsibility, societal and social marketing, new content on the new realities of the post-COVID era, and the increasing competitiveness in hospitality and travel, greater emphasis on branding, disruptive technologies, consumer control, marketing and generations' uses of user-generated content, and globalization. New global case studies throughout with reflective questions to use in class or for self-study. New marketing and e-marketing mini-cases throughout the book. New and updated additional resources to aid understanding and teaching including PowerPoint slides. This international, accessible, and comprehensive whole industry textbook written by a world-renowned author and industry expert is an invaluable study companion for students of hospitality and travel marketing.

Ariyaratna, 2022-09-05 This book examines the challenges posed to Australian copyright law by streaming from the end user perspective. It compares the Australian position with the European Union and United States to draw lessons from them regarding how they have dealt with streaming and copyright. By critically examining the technological functionality of streaming and the failure of copyright enforcement against the masses it argues for strengthening end user rights. The rising popularity of streaming has resulted in a revolutionary change to how digital content such as sound recordings cinematographic films and radio and television broadcasts is used on the internet. Superseding the conventional method of downloading using streaming to access digital content has challenged copyright law because it is not clear whether end user acts of streaming constitute copyright infringement. These prevailing grey areas between copyright and streaming often make end users feel doubtful about accessing digital content through streaming. It is uncertain whether exercising the right of reproduction is appropriately suited for streaming given the ambiguities of embodiment and scope of substantial part. Conversely the fair dealing defence in Australia cannot be used aptly to defend end users acts of streaming digital content because end users who use streaming to access digital content can rarely rely on the defence of fair dealing for the purposes of criticism or review news reporting parody or satire or research or study. When considering a temporary copy exception end users are at risk of being held liable for infringement when using streaming to access a website that contains infringing digital content even if they lack any knowledge about the content's infringing nature. Moreover the grey areas in circumventing geo blocking have made end users hesitant to access websites through streaming because it is not clear whether technological protection measures apply to geo blocking. End users have a severe lack of knowledge about whether they can use circumvention methods such as virtual private networks to access streaming websites without being held liable for copyright infringement. Despite the intricacies between copyright and access to digital content the recently implemented website blocking laws have emboldened copyright owners while suppressing end users access to digital content. This is because the principles of proportionality and public interest have been given less attention when determining website blocking injunctions Interactive Documentary Kathleen M. Ryan,David Staton,2022-03-17 Interactive documentary is still an emerging field that eludes concise definitions or boundaries Grounded in practice based research this collection seeks to expand the sometimes exclusionary field giving voice to scholars and practitioners working outside the margins Editors Kathleen M Ryan and David Staton have curated a collection of chapters written by a global cohort of scholars to explore the ways that interactive documentary as a field of study reveals an even broader reach and definition of humanistic inquiry itself The contributors included here highlight how emerging digital technologies collaborative approaches to storytelling and conceptualizations of practice as research facilitate a deeper engagement with the humanistic inquiry at the center of documentary storytelling while at the same time providing agency and voice to groups typically excluded from positions of authority within documentary and practice based research as a whole This collection represents a key contribution to the important and vocal debates within the field about how to avoid replicating colonial practices and privileging This is an important book for practice based researchers as well as advanced level media and communication students studying documentary media practices interactive storytelling immersive media technologies and digital methodologies
