Mass Media and the Genocide of the Armenians Stefanie Kappler, Sylvia Kasparian, Richard Godin, Joceline Chabot, 2016-03-29 The role of the mass media in genocide is multifaceted with respect to the disclosure and flow of information This volume investigates questions of responsibility denial victimisation and marginalisation through an analysis of the media representations of the Armenian genocide in different national contexts Armenian and Jewish Experience between Expulsion and Destruction Sarah M. Ross, Regina Randhofer, 2021-11-22 Jews and Armenians are often perceived as peoples with similar tragic historical experiences Not only were both groups forced into statelessness and a life outside their homelands for centuries in the 20th century in the shadow of war they were threatened with collective annihilation Thus far academic approaches to these two classical diasporas have been quite different Moreover Armenian and Jewish questions posed during the 19th and 20th centuries have usually been treated separately The conference We Will Live After Babylon that took place in Hanover in February 2019 addressed this gap in research and was one of the first initiatives to deal directly with Jewish and Armenian historical experiences between expulsion exile and annihilation in a comparative framework The contributions in this volume take on multidisciplinary approaches relating to the conference's central themes diaspora minority issues and genocide Media, Diaspora and Conflict Janroj Yilmaz Keles, 2015-08-21 For migrant communities residing outside of their home countries various transnational media have played a key role in maintaining reviving and transforming ethnic and religious identities A vital element is how media outlets report and represent ethno national conflict in the home country Janroj Yilmaz Keles here examines how this plays out among Kurdish and Turkish communities in Europe He offers an analysis of how Turkish and Kurdish migrants in Europe react to the myriad mediated narratives A vital element is how media outlets report and represent the ethno national conflict between the Turkish state and the Kurdish PKK Janroj Yilmaz Keles here offers an examination of how Turkish and Kurdish migrants in Europe react to the myriad narratives that arise Taking as his starting point an analysis of the nature of nationalisms in the modern age Keles shows how language is often a central element in the struggle for hegemony within a state The media has become a site for the clash of representations in both Turkish and Kurdish languages especially for those based in the diaspora in Europe These virtual communities connected by television and the internet in turn influence and are influenced by the way the conflict between the Turkish state and subaltern Kurds is played out both in the media and on the ground By looking at first second and third generations of Turkish and Kurdish populations in Europe Keles highlights the dynamics of migration settlement and integration that often depend on the policies of each settlement country Since these settlement states often see the proliferation of such media as an impediment to integration Media Diaspora and Conflict offers timely analysis concerning the nature of diasporas and the construction of identity Promoting Peace, Inciting Violence Jolyon Mitchell, 2013-01-04 This book explores how media and religion combine to play a role in promoting peace and inciting violence It analyses a wide range of media from posters cartoons and stained glass to websites radio and film and draws on diverse examples from around the world including Iran Rwanda and South Africa Part One considers how various media forms can contribute to the creation of violent environments by memorialising past hurts by instilling fear of the other by encouraging audiences to fight to die or to kill neighbours for an apparently greater good Part Two explores how film can bear witness to past acts of violence how film makers can reveal the search for truth justice and reconciliation and how new media can become sites for non violent responses to terrorism and government oppression To what extent can popular media arts contribute to imagining and building peace transforming weapons into art swords into ploughshares Jolyon Mitchell skillfully combines personal narrative practical insight and academic analysis

Cultures Katie Ellis, 2019-01-18 Disability and Digital Television Cultures offers an important addition to scholarly studies at the intersection of disability and media examining disability in the context of digital television access representation and reception Television as a central medium of communication has marginalized people with disability through both representation on screen and the lack of accessibility to this medium With accessibility options becoming available as television is switched to digital transmissions audience research into television representations must include a corresponding consideration of access This book provides a comprehensive and critical study of the way people with disability access and watch digital TV International case studies and media reports are complimented by findings of a user focused study into accessibility and representation captured during the Australian digital television switchover in 2013 2014 This book will provide a reliable independent guide to fundamental shifts in media access while also offering insight from the disability community It will be essential reading for researchers working on disability and media as well as television communications and culture upper level undergraduate and postgraduate students in cultural studies along with general readers with an interest in disability and digital culture

The Armenian Question ,2009

Beyond Language Demet Arpacık, 2024-11-04

This ethnographic work examines both the colonial language governmentality imposed by the Turkish state and the Kurdish language activism as a response to this system Through a genealogical study it calls for a reconsideration of the linguistic condition in Turkey as being more than nationalist highlighting its foundation in intertwined ideologies of racism imperialism and colonialism It then provides an analysis of new possibilities and directions led by the actors of the Kurdish language movement which seeks to enhance not only the linguistic but also the socio political condition of the Kurdish people by taking a beyond language approach The work advances our thinking about language oppression and minority language activism

Crimes Against Humanity and Civilization, 2004 The Politics of Naming the Armenian Genocide Vartan Matiossian, 2022-12 This book explores the genealogy of the concept of Medz Yeghern Great Crime the Armenian term for the mass murder and ethnic cleansing of the Armenian ethno religious group in the Ottoman Empire between the years 1915 1923 Widely accepted by historians as one of the classical cases of genocide in the 20th century ascribing the right definition to the crime has been a source of contention and controversy in international politics Vartan Matiossian here draws upon extensive research based on Armenian sources neglected in much of the current historiography as well as other European languages in order to trace the development of the concepts pertaining to mass killing and genocide of Armenians from the ancient to the modern periods Beginning with an analysis of the term itself he shows how the politics of its use evolved as Armenians struggled for international recognition of the crime after 1945 in the face of Turkish protest Taking a combined historical philological literary and political perspective the book is an insightful exploration of the politics of naming a catastrophic historical event and the competitive nature of national collective memories United States Official Documents on the Armenian Genocide Ara Sarafian,1994 Factfile on the Armenian Genocide Campaign for Recognition of the Armenian Genocide,2003 Through the Eyes of the Post Jessica L. Taylor,2009 A Crime of Silence Permanent Peoples' Tribunal,1985 Genocide of Armenians Göran Gunner,2013 The Armenian Genocide Paula Johanson,2017-12-15 The systematic extermination of about 1 5 million Armenians by the Ottoman government during and after WWI inspired the formulation of a new term that would come to haunt the modern civilized world genocide It was a harbinger of other genocides that would deeply scar and stain the twentieth century To this day Turkey denies the genocide instead claiming that the victims died of starvation or the violence of isolated gangs or the unintended effects of legitimate deportation These ongoing denials and evasions have generated enormous debate criticism and controversy within and without Turkey all of which is laid out here for readers to sift through and evaluate and within which they may pursue and locate the truth 'Ararat' and Collective Memories of the Armenian Genocide Jonathan Markovitz,2015 Atom Egoyan's Ararat 2002 has been misread and inappropriately critiqued as a failed cinematic representation of the Armenian genocide The author of this article argues that the film is instead an ambitious meditation on the question of how to represent genocide in general and the Armenian genocide specifically He traces a number of themes in Ararat including the political stakes involved in genocide commemoration the reasons for and costs of denial the difficulty and urgency of constructing a past when only ruins remain the problematic nature of cinematic treatments of genocide the intensely personal ways in which collective memory helps to shape individual and family identities and the complexities of determining which versions of the past are reliable Further the author discusses the possible consequences of the film's clearly unintended suggestion that ultimately there are no solid criteria for choosing between competing versions of the past
