Furniture-Makers and Consumers in England, 1754-1851 Akiko Shimbo, 2016-04-15 Covering the period from the publication of Thomas Chippendale's The Gentleman and Cabinet Makers Director 1754 to the Great Exhibition 1851 this book analyses the relationships between producer retailers and consumers of furniture and interior design and explores what effect dialogues surrounding these transactions had on the standardisation of furniture production during this period This was an era before mass production when domestic furniture was made both to order and from standard patterns and negotiations between producers and consumers formed a crucial part of the design and production process This study narrows in on three main areas of this process the role of pattern books and their readers the construction of taste and style through negotiation and daily interactions through showrooms and other services to reveal the complexities of English material culture in a period of industrialisation Furniture-makers and Consumers in England, 1754-1851 Akiko

Shimbo, 2015 The Making of Consumer Culture in Modern Britain Peter Gurney, 2017-05-18 CHOICE OUTSTANDING ACADEMIC TITLE AWARD WINNER 2018 It is commonly accepted that the consumer is now centre stage in modern Britain rather than the worker or producer Consumer choice is widely regarded as the major source of self definition and identity rather than productive activity Politicians vie with each other to fashion their appeal to citizen consumers When and how did these profound changes occur Which historical alternatives were pushed to the margins in the process In what ways did the everyday consumer practices and forms of consumer organising adopted by both middle and working class men and women shape the outcomes This study of the making of consumer culture in Britain since 1800 explores these questions introduces students to major debates and cuts a distinctive path through this vibrant field It suggests that the consumer culture that emerged during this period was shaped as much by political relationships as it was by economic and social factors A Cultural History of Furniture in the Age of Empire and Industry Catherine L. Futter, Christina M.

Anderson, 2022-02-24 The 19th century in Western culture was a time of both confidence and turbulence Industrial development produced a growing middle class as well as efficiency convenience and innovation across a range of fields from engineering to architecture Alongside these improvements the century began with the extended period of the Napoleonic Wars and was further disrupted by rebellions and revolutions both within Europe and in India South America and other parts of the world Slavery was abolished and urbanization increased dramatically These myriad developments were reflected throughout the period in the proliferation of types of furniture along with their categorization as industrial art at the international exhibitions and world fairs and the increasingly adventurous range of materials that were sometimes used in their construction Nonetheless a strong antiquarian historicist strand also prompted interest in the revival of past styles in areas of art and design including furniture Drawing upon a wealth of visual and textual sources this volume of A Cultural History of Furniture presents essays that examine key characteristics of the furniture of the period on the themes of design

The Astronomer's Chair Omar W. Nasim, 2021-09-21 The astronomer's observing chair as both image and object and the story it tells about a particular kind of science and a particular view of history The astronomer's chair is a leitmotif in the history of astronomy appearing in hundreds of drawings prints and photographs from a variety of sources Nineteenth century stargazers in particular seemed eager to display their observing chairs task specific often mechanically adjustable observatory furniture designed for use in conjunction with telescopes But what message did they mean to send with these images In The Astronomer's Chair Omar W. Nasim considers these specialized chairs as both image and object offering an original framework for linking visual and material cultures Observing chairs Nasim ingeniously argues showcased and embodied forms of scientific labor personae and bodily practice that appealed to bourgeois sensibilities Viewing image and object as connected parts of moral epistemic and visual economies of empire Nasim shows that nineteenth century science was represented in terms of comfort and energy and that manly postures of Western astronomers at work in specialized chairs were contrasted pointedly with images of effete and cross legged Oriental astronomers Extending his historical analysis into the twentieth century Nasim reexamines what he argues to be a famous descendant of the astronomer's chair Freud's psychoanalytic couch which directed observations not outward toward the stars but inward toward the stratified universe of the psyche But whether in conjunction with the mind or the heavens the observing chair was a point of entry designed for specialists that also portrayed widely held assumptions about who merited epistemic access to these realms in the first place With more than 100 illustrations many in color flexibound
