Conversion in English Sándor Martsa, 2014-07-18 Drawing on the conceptual metaphor and metonymy theory outlined in works by George Lakoff Ren Dirven G nter Radden and Zolt n K vecses Conversion in English A Cognitive Semantic Approach proposes that the process of conversion in contemporary English is basically a semantic process underlain by a series of conceptual metonymic and metaphoric mappings In the book previous interpretations treating conversion as zero derivation derivation by a zero affix or as syntactically motivated recategorization or as usage based coinage relisting are questioned for they apparently mistake the effect of conversion the obligatory change of word class for its cause the conceptual reanalysis of extralinguistic reality The book also demonstrates that viewing conversion as the result of conceptual mappings makes it possible to view this process as an instantiation of intercategoryal polysemy It also helps to settle the long standing debate concerning the issues of directionality and productivity of conversion Conversion

Parliament. Legislative Council,1918 Word-Formation and Creolisation Maria Braun,2009-12-23 This book explores a relatively little investigated area of creole languages word formation It provides the most comprehensive account so far of the word formation patterns of an English based creole language Sranan as found in its earliest sources and compares them with the patterns attested in the input languages One of the few studies of creole morphology based on historical data the book discusses the theoretical problems arising with the historical analysis of creole word formation and provides an analysis along the lines of Booij s 2005 2007 Construction Morphology in which the assumed boundaries between affixation compounding and syntactic constructions play a very minor role It shows that Early Sranan word formation is characterised by the absence of superstrate derivational affixes the use of free morphemes as derivational markers and of compounding as the major word formation strategy The emergence of Early Sranan word formation involved multiple sources the input languages universals language internal development and different mechanisms reanalysis of free morphemes as derivational markers adaptation of superstrate complex words transfer from the substrates and the creation of innovations The findings render untenable theoretical accounts of creole genesis based on one explanatory factor such as superstrate or substrate influence Bridging Reading Aloud and Speech Production Simone Sulpizio, Sachiko Kinoshita, 2016-07-25 For decades human cognition involved in reading aloud and speech production has been investigated extensively a quote search of the two in google scholar produces about 83 000 and 255 000 results respectively This large amount of research has produced quite detailed descriptions of the cognitive mechanisms that allow people to speak or to read aloud a word However despite the fact that reading aloud and speech production share some processes generation of phonology and preparation of a motor speech response the research in this two areas seems to have taken parallel and independent tracks with almost no contact between the two The present Research Topic takes an initial step towards building a bridge that will link the two research areas as we believe that such an endeavour is essential for moving forward in our understanding of how the mind brain processes words To this aim we encourage contributions exploring the relation between speech production and reading aloud The questions the Research Topic should address include but are not limited to the following To what extent are speech production and word reading reading aloud similar Are there some shared components and or mechanisms between the two process Is the time course of the supposed shared mechanisms activation similar in the two processes How does the different input conceptual vs orthographic interact with the types of information that reading and speaking share semantic and phonological knowledge articulatory codes How does a difference in the input affect the supposed common stages of processing i e phonological encoding and articulatory planning and execution We welcome any kind of contribution e g original research article review opinion that answers the above or other questions related to the Topic Adobe Acrobat X Classroom in a Book Adobe Creative Team, 2010-12-29 Adobe Acrobat X Classroom in a Book is the most thorough and comprehensive way for creative professionals and business users to learn how to deliver high impact communications with next generation Adobe Acrobat X Each chapter in this step by step project based guide contains a project that builds on your growing knowledge of the program while end of chapter review questions reinforce each lesson This cross platform Mac and Windows book shows you how to create high quality PDF documents and fillable forms combine a wide variety of content into rich media portfolios collaborate effectively through electronic reviews easily share your work across multiple platforms and devices and speed up your production and business task workflow with Acrobat X In this new version you ll learn how to automate multistep tasks with Action Wizard streamline document reviews and include Adobe Reader users create interactive forms and track responses within Acrobat create PDF Portfolios and customize them with all new layouts and color palettes remove sensitive information with redaction tools incorporate audio and video into rich media PDFs search and reuse scanned content with improved optical character recognition OCR compare PDF files to avoid version control issues fix
