"Framing the Ocean, 1700 to the Present " Tricia Cusack, 2017-07-05 Before the eighteenth century the ocean was regarded as a repulsive and chaotic deep Despite reinvention as a zone of wonder and pleasure it continued to be viewed in the West and elsewhere as uninhabited empty space This collection spanning the eighteenth century to the present recasts the ocean as social space with particular reference to visual representations Part I focuses on mappings and crossings showing how the ocean may function as a liminal space between places and cultures but also connects and imbricates them Part II considers ships as microcosmic societies shaped for example by the purpose of the voyage the mores of shipboard life and cross cultural encounters Part III analyses narratives accreted to wrecks and rafts what has sunk or floats perilously and discusses attempts to recuperate plastic flotsam Part IV plumbs ocean depths to consider how underwater creatures have been depicted in relation to emergent disciplines of natural history and museology how mermaids have been reimagined as a metaphor of feminist transformation and how the symbolism of coral is deployed by contemporary artists This engaging and erudite volume will interest a range of scholars in humanities and social sciences including art and cultural historians cultural geographers and historians of empire travel and tourism

Untangling Plastics: The Missing Link in Mitigating Climate Change Bob Gedert, 2025-11-14 Reaching the Post Plastic Age for True Sustainability Plastics are made from fossil fuels and in every step in a piece of plastic's life cycle from creation to destruction it negatively impacts Earth's climate And yet more and more plastics are being produced every day We can no longer afford to ignore the connection between plastic and climate change Untangling Plastics is a comprehensive investigation of the manufacturing use and disposal of plastics and their impacts on the health of the environment and human beings Author Bob Gedert pulls from current research and his forty five year career in the recycling industry to reveal that we cannot recycle our way out of the plastics pollution crisis He instead offers real solutions for how we can adopt greener ways of living and phase out plastics Our planet has already been irreversibly damaged by the impact of plastics and we will never successfully limit climate change if we can't untangle ourselves from the creeping web of plastics

Plastic Legacies Trisia Farrelly, Sy Taffel, Ian Shaw, 2021-07-12 There is virtually nowhere on earth that remains untouched by plastics and the situation presents a serious threat to our natural world Despite the magnitude of the problem the interventions most often put in place are consumer led and market based and only nominally capable of addressing the issue As the problem worsens and neoliberal ideologies limit the world's responses to this crisis there is a growing need for legislative frameworks that attend to the complex social and ecological issues associated with plastics The contributors to this volume bring expertise from across academic disciplines to illustrate how plastics are produced consumed and discarded and to find holistic and integrated approaches that demonstrate an understanding of the wide ranging problem From the plasticization of earth's oceans to the endocrine disrupting chemicals that have the potential to seriously harm life as we know it these essays beg the question that we all must answer what is our plastic legacy With contributions by Imogen E Napper Sabine Pahl Richard C Thompson Sasha Adkins Stephanie B Borrelle Jennifer Provencher Tina Ngata Sven Bergmann Christina Gerhardt Elyse Stanes Tridibesh Dey Mike Michael Laura McLauchlan Johanne Tarpgaard Deirdre McKay Padmapani Perez Lei Xiaoyu and John Holland

Thicker Than Water Erica Cirino, 2021-10-07 Much of what you've heard about plastic pollution may be wrong Instead of a great island of trash the infamous Great Pacific Garbage Patch is made up of manmade debris spread over hundreds of miles of sea more like a soup than a floating garbage dump Less than nine percent of the plastic we create is reused and microplastic fragments are found almost everywhere even in our bodies In Thicker Than Water: The Quest for Solutions to the Plastic Crisis journalist Erica Cirino brings readers on a globe hopping journey to meet the scientists and activists telling the real story of the plastic crisis New technologies and awareness bring some hope but Cirino shows that we can only fix the problem if we begin to repair our throwaway culture Thicker Than Water is an eloquent call to reexamine the systems churning out waves of plastic waste

Trash Vortex Danielle Smith-Llera, 2018-01-01 Millions of tons of plastic slip into oceans every year Some floats and travels slowly with the currents endangering the health of marine animals The rest is hardly visible but is far more dangerous Tiny bits of plastic sprinkle the ocean's surface or mix into the sandy seafloor and beaches It ends up inside birds fish and other animals harming them and ultimately humans Experts struggle with fear and hope as they work to stop the flood of plastic threatening living organisms across the globe

Plastic Soup Michiel Roscam Abbing, 2019-04-04 Plastics have transformed every aspect of our lives Yet the very properties that make them attractive they are cheap to make light and durable spell disaster when trash makes its way into the environment Plastic Soup: An Atlas of Ocean Pollution is a beautifully illustrated survey of the plastics clogging our seas their impacts on wildlife and people around the world and inspirational initiatives designed to tackle the problem In Plastic Soup Michiel Roscam Abbing of the Plastic Soup Foundation reveals the scope of the issue plastic trash now lurks on every corner of the planet With striking photography and graphics Plastic Soup brings this challenge to brilliant life for readers Yet it also sends a message of hope although the scale of the problem is massive so is the dedication of activists working to check it Plastic Soup highlights a diverse array of projects to curb plastic waste and raise awareness from plastic free grocery stores to innovative laws and art installations According to some estimates if we continue on our current path the oceans will contain more plastic than fish by the year 2050 Created to inform and inspire readers Plastic Soup is a critical tool in the fight to reverse this trend Plastic Matter Heather Davis,2022-02-04 Plastic is ubiquitous It is in the Arctic in the depths of the Mariana Trench and in the high mountaintops of the Pyrenees It is in the air we breathe and the water we drink Nanoplastics penetrate our cell walls Plastic is not just any material it is emblematic of life in the twentieth and twenty first centuries In Plastic Matter Heather Davis traces plastic s relations to geology media biology and race to show how matter itself has come to be understood as pliable disposable and consumable The invention and widespread use of plastic Davis contends reveals the dominance of the Western orientation to matter and its assumption that matter exists to be endlessly manipulated and controlled by humans Plastic s materiality and pliability reinforces these expectations of what matter should be and do Davis charts these relations to matter by mapping the queer multispecies relationships between humans and plastic eating bacteria and analyzing photography that documents the racialized environmental violence of plastic production In so doing Davis provokes readers to reexamine their relationships to matter and life in light of plastic s saturation

The report makes the case for a global scientific mechanism on marine litter and microplastics and discusses the conditions to make it work effectively and to enable it to strengthen the global science and knowledge base on marine litter and microplastics
