The Political Economy of Heaven and Earth in Ghana Charles Prempeh, 2023-09-30 In March 2017 the president of Ghana Nana Addo Dankwa Akufo announced his intention to build a national cathedral to the people of Ghana The announcement elicited watertight counter arguments that morphed into two a priori re litigated assumptions First Ghana is a secular country and second religion and state formation are incompatible Informed by a frustrating paradox of an overwhelming religious presence and concurrent pervasive corruption in the country public conversation reached a cul de sac of conviction without compromising In The Political Economy of Heaven and Earth in Ghana Charles Prempeh deploys the national cathedral as an entry point to provide both interdisciplinary and autoethnographic understanding of religion and politics The book shows the capacity of religion when properly cultivated and curated as a worldview to answer the why questions of life will foster personal moral collective and ontological responsibility All this is needed to stem the tide against corruption commodity fetishism environmental degradation illegal mining galamsey heritage destruction and religious exploitation Prempeh recuperates a historical fact about the mutual inclusivity between religion and politics politics helping to manage differences while religion provides a transcendental reason for unity to be forged for human flourishing Separating the two is therefore ahistorical and an obvious threat to the intangible virtues that answers why and how questions for public governance

The Theater of Experiment Al Coppola, 2016-08-19 The first book length study of the relationship between science and theater during the long eighteenth century in Britain The Theater of Experiment explores the crucial role of spectacle in the establishment of modern science by analyzing how eighteenth century science was staged in a double sense On the one hand this study analyzes science in performance the way that science and scientists were made a public spectacle in comedies farces and pantomimes for purposes that could range from the satiric to the pedagogic to the hagiographic But this book also considers the way in which these plays laid bare science as performance that is the way that eighteenth century science was itself a kind of performing art subject to regimes of stagecraft that traversed the laboratory the lecture hall the anatomy theater and the public stage Not only did the representation of natural philosophy in eighteenth century plays like Thomas Shadwell s Virtuoso Aphra

Behn's The Emperor of the Moon, Susanna Centlivre's The Basset Table and John Rich's Necromancer or Harelequin. Doctor Faustus influence contemporary debates over the role that experimental science was to play in public life; the theater shaped the very form that science itself was to take. By disciplining and ultimately helping to legitimate experimental philosophy, the eighteenth-century stage helped to naturalize an epistemology based on self-evident, decontextualized facts that might speak for themselves. In this, the stage and the lab jointly fostered an Enlightenment culture of spectacle that transformed the conditions necessary for the production and dissemination of scientific knowledge. Precisely because Enlightenment public science initiatives taking their cue from the public stages came to embrace the stagecraft and spectacle that Restoration natural philosophy sought to repress from the scene of experimental knowledge production, eighteenth-century science organized itself around not the sober, masculine, modest witness of experiment but the sentimental, feminized, eager observer of scientific performance.

Mill Hill Essays, 1997 Contemporary Issues in Politics & International Relations

Nesrin Kenar, 2021-12-26

Conflict is a phenomenon as old as human history. Although the actors and reasons have changed, conflicts have occurred in every period of history. In the pre-Cold War era, conflicts in the international system were experienced between states. The conflicts during the Cold War mainly were interstate conflicts arising from the rivalry between the two blocs. In this period, it was expected that the threat to the security of a state would come from outside the borders of the state and from other states. For this reason, all the regulations made by the League of Nations, which was established at the end of the First World War, and the United Nations, which was established after the Second World War to protect international peace and security, included the measures to be taken against the attack or threat of attack by one state against another state. However, the developments that took place right after the end of the Cold War confirmed that the risk of interstate conflict decreased and new security threats emerged in this period. The conflicts that emerged in the post-Cold War period were separatist conflicts due to ethnic and religious reasons, such as the former Yugoslavia and Georgia, or intra-border conflicts that occurred for other reasons, such as in Syria. Upon the inadequacy of international organizations and international law to intervene in intra-border conflicts, the concept of security was redefined, and a transformation from the security of the state to the security of the individual took place. New security threats, such as environmental security, human security, food security, terrorism, weapons of mass destruction, and pandemics, have been identified. One of the reasons for the decrease in conflicts between states in the post-Cold War period is that states mostly use soft power instead of military force in achieving their foreign policy goals. The structure of the international system is also a dynamic that affects conflicts. After the end of the bipolar system, the transformation of the international system is not yet complete. One of the most critical problems in today's world is the competition and struggle between states to become the future superpower. While the US wants the current status quo to continue, China is trying to change the status quo in its favour. The European Union is to become the dominant power in the international system after its transformation in the post-Cold War period.
