Transnational Law and State Transformation Jennifer Lander, 2019-11-07 This book contributes new theoretical insight and in depth empirical analysis about the relationship between transnational legality state change and the globalisation of markets The role of transnational economic law in influencing and reorganising national systems of governance evidences the constitutional dimensions of global capitalism the power to institute new rules and limits for national states This form of new constitutionalism does not undermine the state but transforms it by eroding national capacities and implanting global alternatives While leading scholars in the field have emphasised the much needed value of case studies there are no studies available which consider the cumulative impact of multiple axes of transnational legal ordering on the national state or its constitution This monograph addresses this empirical gap whilst expanding the theoretical scope of the field Mongolia's recent transformation as a mineral exporting country provides a rare opportunity to witness economic and legal globalisation in process Based on careful empirical analysis of national law and policy making the book traces the way distinctive processes of transnational legal ordering have reorganised and reframed the governance of Mongolia's mining sector specifically by redistributing state power in relation to the market sub national administrations and civil society The book investigates the role of international financial institutions multinational corporations and non governmental organisations in normative transmission as well as the critical role of national actors in embedding transnational investment norms within the domestic legal and policy environment As the book demonstrates however the constitutional ramifications of transnational legal ordering extend beyond the mining regime itself into more fundamental questions of the trajectory of state transformation institutionally and ideologically The book will be of interest to scholars of international law global governance and the political economy of development

National Power and International Geostructure Daniel Morales

Ruvalcaba, Alberto Rocha Valencia, 2024-04-18 This book addresses three innovative aspects for the study of International Relations first proposes a novel theoretical methodological framework for the study of national power and based on this a quantitative analysis technique is formulated that allows us to study the evolution of state power over almost five decades Second states play a fundamental role in the international system which is why the study of their roles in the world cannot be limited to old insufficient and contradictory categorizations Having new categories of states becomes an even more urgent task in the rapidly changing international order than it is today This book proposes nine categories of powers and states that cover all the countries that currently exist Third the international geostructure of world power is proposed which represents a new theoretical notion that helps to explain how the international insertion of states and their possibilities of action are conditioned by the unequal distribution of national power and by their structural positioning in the international system This book is for all students of International Relations academics and people who want to understand national power as a fundamental factor in relations between countries

Marzluf, 2017-11-22 Language Literacy and Social Change in Mongolia is the first full length treatment of literacy in Mongolian Challenging readers assumptions about Central Asia and Mongolia this book focuses on Mongolians experiences with reading and writing throughout the past 100 years Literacy as a powerful historical and social variable shows readers how reading and writing have shaped the lives of Mongolians and at the same time how reading and writing have been transformed by historical political economic and other social forces Mongolian literacy serves as an especially rich area of inquiry because of the dramatic political economic and social changes that occurred in the twentieth and twenty first centuries For the seventy years during which Mongolia was a part of the communist Soviet world literacy played an important role in how Mongolians identified themselves conceived of the past and created a new social order Literacy was also a part of the story of authoritarianism and state violence It was used to express the authority of the communist Mongolian People s Revolutionary Party control the pastoral population and suppress non socialist beliefs and practices Mongolians reading and writing opportunities and resources were tightly controlled and the language policy of replacing the traditional Mongolian script with the Cyrillic alphabet immediately followed the violent repression of Buddhist leaders government officials and intellectuals Beginning with the 1990 Democratic Revolution Mongolians have been thrust into free market capitalism privatization globalization and neoliberalism In post socialist Mongolia literacy no longer serves as the center for Mongolian identity Government subsidies to pastoral literacy resources have been slashed and administrators now find themselves competing with other developing countries for educational funding Due to the pressures caused by globalization Mongolians have begun to talk about literacy and language in terms of crisis and anxiety As global flows of English compete with new symbols from the distant past Mongolians worry about the perceived lowering standards of Mongolian linguistic usage amid rapid economic changes These worries also reveal themselves in official language policies and manifest themselves in the multiple languages and scripts that appear in the capital of Ulaanbaatar and other urban areas
