Cherbit, 1991-01-31 This text will be a valuable tool and reference work for all those interested in fractal forms and their properties The past decade has seen an almost exponential amount of work done in the field of non integral dimensions Upon publication of Mandelbrot s Objets Fractals 1975 a great number of researchers understood the interest of fractals Many tried by means of the theory to set up immediately useable tools including the author who opted for an experimental approach and developed instrumentation to explore the widest possible range in both time and space time resolution of the laser spectroscopy of biomolecules In this spirit these expert researchers organized monthly Hausdorff seminars on the notion of non integral dimension and its applications to tackle the problems confronting practical scientists This work captures with many illustrative examples the main themes of each session

The Beauty of Fractals Denny Gulick, Jon Scott, 2010 The Beauty of Fractals includes six essays related to fractals with perspectives different enough to give you a taste of the breadth of the subject Each essay is self contained and expository Moreover each of the essays is intended to be accessible to a broad audience that includes college teachers high school teachers advanced undergraduate students and others who wish to learn or teach about topics in fractals that are not regularly in textbooks on fractals

The Beauty of Fractals Heinz-Otto Peitgen, Peter H. Richter, 2013-12-01 In 1953 I realized that the straight line leads to the downfall of mankind But the straight line has become an absolute tyranny The straight line is something cowardly drawn with a rule without thought or feeling it is the line which does not exist in nature And that line is the rotten foundation of our doomed civilization Even if there are places where it is recognized that this line is rapidly leading to perdition its course continues to be plotted Any design undertaken with the straight line will be stillborn Today we are witnessing the triumph of rationalist knowhow and yet at the same time we find ourselves confronted with emptiness An esthetic void devoid of uniformity criminal sterility loss of creative power Even creativity is prefabricated We have become impotent We are no longer able to create That is our real illiteracy Friedensreich Hundertwasser Fractals are all around us in the shape of a mountain range or in the windings of a coast line Like cloud formations and flickering fires some fractals undergo never ending changes while others like trees or our own vascular systems retain the structure they acquired in their development To non scientists it may seem odd that such familiar things have recently become the focus of intense research But familiarity is not enough to ensure that scientists have the tools for an adequate understanding
