Strategic Communicators and Activism Lukasz Swiatek, Marina Vujnovic, Chris Galloway, Dean Kruckeberg, 2023-09-09 In a world that is increasingly wary of artificial intelligence, AI, this book explores the pressing need for strategic communicators to move away from being advocates for AI and move towards a more critical activist role that enables them to counter AI-driven threats to communities and relationships. AI is contributing to inequality, misinformation, and environmental damage among other problems. This book argues that strategic communicators are uniquely placed to help counter AI-driven challenges because of their skills in relationship building and their ability to craft and deliver messages effectively. By discussing the different professional activist approaches that communicators can take in relation to growing AI challenges, the book offers multiple perspectives that will help to build knowledge in diverse settings and develop practice, especially in community and activist strategic communication. Research-based and combining theory with practice, this thought-provoking book will be welcomed by strategic communication scholars and practitioners alike eager to develop a critical approach to the challenges surrounding AI. Index of Specifications and Standards, 2005 Generative AI in Practice Bernard

Parallel Processing for Artificial Intelligence 1 L.N. Kanal,H. Kitano,V. Kumar,C.B. Suttner,2014-06-28 Parallel processing for AI problems is of great current interest because of its potential for alleviating the computational demands of AI procedures The articles in this book consider parallel processing for problems in several areas of artificial intelligence image processing knowledge representation in semantic networks production rules mechanization of logic constraint satisfaction parsing of natural language data filtering and data mining The publication is divided into six sections The first addresses parallel computing for processing and understanding images The second discusses parallel processing for semantic networks which are widely used means for representing knowledge methods which enable efficient and flexible processing of semantic networks are expected to have high utility for building large scale knowledge based systems The third section explores the automatic parallel execution of production systems which are used extensively in building rule based expert systems systems containing large numbers of rules are slow to execute and can significantly benefit from automatic parallel execution The exploitation of parallelism for the mechanization of logic is dealt with in the fourth section While sequential control aspects pose problems for the parallelization of production systems logic has a purely declarative interpretation which does not demand a particular evaluation strategy In this area therefore very large search spaces provide significant potential for parallelism In particular this is true for automated theorem proving The fifth section considers the problem of constraint satisfaction which is a useful abstraction of a number of important problems in AI and other fields of computer science It also discusses the technique of consistent labeling as a preprocessing step in the constraint satisfaction problem Section VI consists of two articles each on a different important topic The first discusses parallel formulation for the Tree Adjoining Grammar TAG which is a powerful formalism for describing natural languages The second examines the suitability of a parallel programming paradigm called Linda for solving problems in artificial intelligence Each of the areas discussed in the book holds many open problems but it is believed that parallel processing will form a key ingredient in achieving at least partial solutions It is hoped that the contributions sourced from experts around the world will inspire readers to take on these challenging areas of inquiry

Del Casino Jr.,Natalie Marie Gulsrud,Sarah Barns,2023-10-18 Artificial intelligence AI is now mediating and in some cases seen to be controlling key urban services and infrastructures thus becoming a prominent feature of the contemporary city As portrayed in recent studies the autonomous city can be understood as a city where urban artificial intelligences perform tasks and take on roles which have traditionally been the domain of humans At stake in these debates are questions related to the meaning and ongoing role of intelligence for both humans and machines While autonomous cars transport people service robots run shops drones deliver goods and city brains govern entire cities humans are redefining the meaning of what smart means in the city and what role the human being may play in future urban spaces With humans shifted to new sectors of the economy or pushed aside by algorithms and robotic agents creating new ways of seeing and governing the city we raise the question as to whether or not cities are becoming more autonomous from human experience in the sense that their operation does not rely as much on human inputs anymore
