compare sites produced mainly by hominids with others made by carnivores Questions about hominid hunting scavenging and the importance of eating meat are then scrutinized The leading alternative positions on each issue are discussed providing a basis for understanding some of the most contentious debates in paleo anthropology today The dominant interpretive model for the artifact and bone accumulations at Olduvai and other Plio Pleistocene sites has been that they represent home bases social foci similar to the campsites of hunter gatherers Based on paleo ecological evidence and ecological models the author critically analyzes the home base interpretation and proposes alternative views A new view of the Olduvai sites that they represent stone caches where hominids processed carcasses for food is shown to have important implications for our understanding of hominid social behavior and evolution      Notification to Victims of Improper Intelligence Agency Activities United States.
