China-Taiwan Relations in a Global Context C. X. George Wei, 2012 This book traces the development of Taiwan's relations with its diplomatic partners and its policy towards the political opponents of its political opponent mainland China. Paying particular attention to the powers that could exercise great influence in the future of East Asia, China-Taiwan Relations in a Global Context examines the main diplomatic strategies of Taiwan and its counterparts and the major problems for Taiwanese foreign relations. To date, there is very little scholarship which examines the Taiwan Issue outside of the triangular Beijing-Washington-Taipei framework; this book does exactly that. The contributors examine the development of Taiwan's relationship with less prominent countries and governments and attempt to ascertain how such examinations could give rise to new variables that help explain the strategy and purpose of Taiwan's foreign policy as well as the reaction and response of mainland China. This book provides readers with vital information about Taiwan's foreign policymaking and introduces rarely told stories about Taiwan's foreign relations. The research demonstrates the ceaseless and unyielding diplomatic efforts of the Taiwanese for survival in a shrunken international space and renders for readers a better understanding of the complexity of Taiwan's relations with the rest of the world. This book is essential reading for anyone interested in Taiwan studies, Chinese politics, Cross Strait relations, and Asian foreign policy.

Rethinking Democracy Promotion in International Relations Jessica Schmidt, 2015-08-20 This book traces and conceptualises the changing notion of democracy and demonstrates how democracy promotion finds itself at the heart of contemporary international discourses and policies. Democracy promotion is widely considered to constitute a hypocritical and failed grand international narrative of the 1990s and has allegedly been replaced by other more pressing and academically more captivating concerns such as conflict management, statebuilding, and climate change. This book challenges this position and argues that the core notions of democracy promotion such as empowerment, inclusion, and responsiveness are a key concern of contemporary international policymakers. Drawing on the work of Michel Foucault, Hannah Arendt, as well as John Dewey, it investigates the notion of democracy and modality of its promotions through the policy fields of conflict management, statebuilding, and climate change. The central development the book observes is the reconceptualisation of democracy from the constituted sphere of the public to the lived relations of the social. The book argues that the novel rationality of democracy and its promotion offers a particular solution to governing impasses in a world perceived to be globalised and complex, which accounts for democracy's current but neglected centrality. This book will be of much interest to students of democracy, intervention, statebuilding, global governance, and IR in general.

Linking the European Union Emissions Trading System Charlotte Unger, 2021-01-25 This book focuses on the linking of the European Union Emissions Trading System (EU ETS) with other independent regional ETS. While rich practical and academic research has evolved on the economic and technical side of ETS, linking political drivers and barriers have so far been underrepresented in this debate. Filling this lacuna and based on international relations theory existing research and qualitative fieldwork this book introduces the range of political conditions that influence linking such as political leadership and stakeholder activity Specifically it analyzes which of these aspects have played a role in three different linking activities of the EU 1 a failed linking attempt EU ETS California Cap and Trade Program 2 a successful linking treaty EU ETS Switzerland Emissions Trading System and 3 an agreed upon but not realized link EU ETS Australia Carbon Pricing Mechanism Through an interrogation of these examples Dr Unger concludes that it is not only the technical challenges or the overall economic benefit but rather domestic interests structural aspects and external international political developments that have jointly dominated linking activities especially those in which the EU takes part This book will be of great interest to scholars and policy makers working in climate policy and EU environmental politics

Responsibility for Human Rights David Jason Karp, 2014-03-27 An original analysis of which global actors are responsible for human rights in today's world and why Armed State Building Paul D. Miller, 2013-08-15 Since 1898 the United States and the United Nations have deployed military force more than three dozen times in attempts to rebuild failed states Currently there are more state building campaigns in progress than at any time in the past century including Afghanistan Bosnia Kosovo the Democratic Republic of Congo Haiti Sudan Liberia Cote d'Ivoire and Lebanon and the number of candidate nations for such campaigns in the future is substantial Even with a broad definition of success earlier campaigns failed more than half the time In this book Paul D Miller brings his decade in the U.S. military intelligence community and policy worlds to bear on the question of what causes armed international state building campaigns by liberal powers to succeed or fail The United States successfully rebuilt the West German and Japanese states after World War II but failed to build a functioning state in South Vietnam After the Cold War the United Nations oversaw relatively successful campaigns to restore order hold elections and organize post conflict reconstruction in Mozambique Namibia Nicaragua and elsewhere but those successes were overshadowed by catastrophes in Angola Liberia and Somalia The recent effort in Iraq and the ongoing one in Afghanistan where Miller had firsthand military intelligence and policymaking experience are yielding mixed results despite the high levels of resources dedicated and the long duration of the missions there Miller outlines different types of state failure analyzes various levels of intervention that liberal states have tried in the state building process and distinguishes among the various failures and successes those efforts have provoked Scientific Realism and of alternative political economy approaches to international aid and presents an original framework for evaluating likely reformers strength of commitment and potential alliances with donors International Politics on the World Stage John T. Rourke, 2005 This concise text provides students and instructors with a comprehensive overview of world politics inviting them in a straightforward and accessible way to explore international relations and its new challenges A hallmark of the text is the authors position that politics affect the lives of all of us and that the individual can have an impact whether small or large by being politically aware and by taking action ILSA Journal of International & Comparative Law , 2002 The Politics of the New International Financial Architecture Susanne Soederberg, 2004-11 Recent years have witnessed a veritable epidemic of financial crises from Mexico through South East Asia Russia Brazil and now Argentina The rich industrial countries led by the United States have had to respond This book examines the G7 s attempts over the past decade to re establish rules and a degree of order in the world financial system through the creation of the Financial Stability Forum and the G20 which they are calling the New International Financial Architecture Susanne Soederberg asks Why has the New International Financial Architecture emerged At whose initiative What does it involve What are the underlying power relations Who is benefiting Will it really work The author argues however that this tinkering with the capitalist system will not achieve either sustained economic growth or stability in financial markets let alone enhance the capability of developing countries to tackle the problems of mass poverty and social injustice Journal of Peace Research , 2008-11 The Place of International Obligations in the Domestic Legal Order of States , 2008 Ploughshares Monitor , 2000

Education Hell Gerald Watkins Bracey, 2009 Are America s schools broken Education Hell Rhetoric vs Reality seeks to address misconceptions about America s schools by taking on the credo what can be measured matters To the contrary Dr Bracey makes a persuasive case that much of what matters cannot be assessed on a multiple choice test The challenge for educators is to deal effectively with an incomplete accountability system while creating a broader understanding of successful schools and teachers School leaders must work to define maintain and increase essential skills that may not be measured in today s accountability plans Negotiations of the "new World" Sabine Selchow, 2017 In this book I develop the argument that the omnipresence of the contemporary adjective global is more than a linguistic curiosity I argue it is a political phenomenon and as such a valuable albeit unconventional object of study for scholars outside the linguistics discourse I argue that the omnipresence of the contemporary adjective global constitutes the discursive reproduction of a web of meanings that is best labelled new world As such the omnipresence of the contemporary adjective global constitutes a distinct dimension of the enduring contestation over the construction of the world Given the word s current popularity and unscrutinised existence as well as the loaded nature of the web of meanings new world that it brings out I argue this dimension is not just a minor matter but plays an important hence research worthy role in the contemporary symbolic struggle over the world My conceptualisation of the omnipresence of the contemporary adjective global as the reproduction of a web of meanings new world is grounded in two central insights that arise from my empirical engagement with the adjective global. The first of these two insights is the empirically grounded understanding that the contemporary adjective global is closely enmeshed with the talk about different ideas associated with the word globalisation. I call this talk globalisation discourse. As I demonstrate, the contemporary adjective global has come to be used in the sense of outcome of globalisation. This makes the adjective a new word. What is new about the contemporary global, I argue, is that it implies ideas that are associated with the word globalisation. I develop my argument that the contemporary adjective global is best taken as a new word by building on relevant discussions among lexicographers about when a word is appropriately called new as well as by drawing on a theory of language and meaning according to which language and meaning are not natural and referential but conventional and productive. The second central insight that arises from my empirical engagement with the contemporary global and that underlies my conceptualisation of the omnipresence of global as the re-production of a web of meanings new world refers to the word globalisation. It is the insight that all utterances which contain the word globalisation can be seen as constituting a discursive production of an object that is best labelled new world. In other words, my conceptualisation of the omnipresence of global builds on my understanding that what all uses of the word globalisation have in common despite and in addition to the myriad of meanings that are associated with this word in whichever context it is used is that they imply the proclamation of a new world that came. This insight makes what I call globalisation discourse different from existing conceptualisations under this label such as the one by Hay and Smith 2005. Normally, the globalisation discourse is conceptualised based on a scholarly preconception of what the word globalisation refers to such as market integration or the spread of neoliberalism. In contrast, my suggestion that we understand the uses of the word globalisation as a discursive production of a web of meanings that is best called new world is grounded in an approach that takes the polysemy of the word globalisation seriously. In addition, it builds on an elaboration of the question how and when the concepts globalisation and the neologism globalisation came to be in the true Foucault 1981: 61, i.e. became socially accepted and normal tools to grasp the world. As I discuss in this book, developments which have come to be addressed with the word globalisation existed before this neologism became popular at the end of the 1980s and in the course of the 1990s. Given that meaning is not inherent in social reality but conventional, the question arises why a new word was perceived to be needed and accepted at the end of the 1980s and 1990s, i.e. at that particular moment in time. My answer to this question is that this was because the end of the Cold War was perceived to have brought out a new world for which existing conceptual tools were perceived to be inadequate. This new world was perceived as having produced a conceptual vacuum. This is apparent in assessments such as that of IR theorist James N. Rosenau 1990: 5, who argued after the end of the Cold War that observers were left without any paradigms or theories that adequately explain the course of events. I argue it was this perceived vacuum that opened the discursive door and let the concepts globalisation and the neologism globalisation step in to fill it.

Consequently the use of the word globalisation can be conceptualised as re producing and filling the conceptual space new world with meaning It is the synthesis of these two insights that allows me to conceptualise the omnipresence of the contemporary adjective global as a distinct phenomenon namely as a discursive re production of a web of meanings called new world This phenomenon I argue in this book is relevant and interesting in two respects ASPJ, 2012 Journal of Economic Literature, 2007 Reliability of Structural Shocks Estimates from a Bivariate SVAR Model Arief Ramayandi, Peter Drysdale, Christopher Charles Findlay, 2006 State of the World's Cities 2008/2009 United Nations Human Settlements Programme, 2008 First Published in 2008 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company
