Samarkand the Center of the World Matteo Compareti, 2016 In antiquity Samarkand was the capital of the Persian province of Sogdiana Its language culture and Zoroastrian religion closely approximated those of the Persians Following its conquest by Alexander its strategic position and fertile soil made Sogdiana a coveted prize for Late Antique invaders of

Central Asia Around 660 CE at the dawn of Arab invasion local king Varkhuman promoted the execution of a unique painted program in one of his private rooms Each wall was dedicated to a specific population the north wall the Chinese the west the Sogdians themselves the east the Indians and possibly the Turks The south wall is probably the continuation of the scene on the west wall In Chinese written sources some support for this concept of the division of the world can be found Accidentally discovered during Soviet times the room was named Hall of the Ambassadors due to the representations of different peoples However many aspects of its painted program remain obscure This study offers new ideas for better identifications of the rituals celebrated by the people on the different walls during precise moments of the year Central Bank of India Manager Scale II Recruitment Exam Book (English Edition) - 10 Practice Tests (1000 Solved MCQ) EduGorilla Prep

Homes of the Past Jeffrey Shandler, 2024-06-04 Homes of the Past tells the powerful story of how immigrant Jewish scholars in 1940s New York sought to build a museum to commemorate their lost worlds and people Among the Jews who arrived in the United States in the early 1940s were a small number of Polish scholars who had devoted their professional lives to the study of Europe's Yiddish speaking Jews at the YIVO Institute for Jewish Research Faced with the devastating knowledge that returning to their former homes and resuming their scholarly work there was no longer viable they sought to address their profound sense of loss by continuing their work under radically different circumstances to document the European Jewish lives places and ways of living that were being destroyed In pursuing this daunting agenda they made a remarkable decision they would create a museum to memorialize East European Jewry and educate American Jews about this legacy YIVO scholars determinedly pursued this undertaking for several years publicizing the initiative and collecting materials to exhibit However the Museum of the Homes of the Past was abandoned shortly after the war ended With insight and clarity Jeffrey Shandler draws upon the surviving archival sources to tell the story of the purpose development and ultimate fate of the Museum of the Homes of the Past Homes of the Past explores this largely unknown episode of modern Jewish history and museum history and demonstrates that the project even though it was never realized marked a critical inflection point in the dynamic interrelations between Jews in America and Eastern Europe
