Christological Anthropology in Historical Perspective Marc Cortez, 2016-02-02 What does it mean to be truly human In Christological Anthropology in Historical Perspective Marc Cortez looks at the ways several key theologians Gregory of Nyssa Julian of Norwich Martin Luther Friedrich Schleiermacher Karl Barth John Zizioulas and James Cone have used Christology to inform their understanding of the human person Based on this historical study he concludes with a constructive proposal for how Christology and anthropology should work together to inform our view of what it means to be human Many theologians begin their discussion of the human person by claiming that in some way Jesus Christ reveals what it means to be truly human but this often has little impact in the material presentation of their anthropology Although modern theologians often fail to reflect robustly on the relationship between Christology and anthropology this was not the case throughout church history In this book examine seven key theologians and discover their important contributions to theological anthropology ReSourcing Theological Anthropology Marc Cortez, 2018-01-09 Theologians working in theological anthropology often claim that Jesus reveals what it means to be truly human but this often has little impact in their actual account of anthropology ReSourcing Theological Anthropology addresses that lack by offering an account of why theological anthropology must begin with Christology Building off his earlier study on how key theologians in church history have understood the relationship between Christology and theological anthropology Cortez now develops a new proposal for theological anthropology and applies it to the theological situation today ReSourcing Theological Anthropology is divided into four sections The first section explores the relevant Christological anthropological biblical passages and unpacks how they inform our understanding of theological anthropology The second section discusses the theological issues raised in the course of surveying the biblical texts The third section lays out a methodological framework for how to construct a uniquely Christological anthropology The final section builds on the first three sections and demonstrates the significance of Christology for understanding theological anthropology by applying the methodological framework to several pressing anthropological issues gender and sexuality race and ethnicity and death and suffering X Discovering Biblical Equality Ronald W. Pierce, Cynthia Long Westfall, Christa L. McKirland, 2021-11-02 The conversation about gender roles in Christian life and the church has evolved but the topic continues to inspire debate and disagreement Now in its third edition this fresh positive defense of gender equality brings together scholars firmly committed to the authority of Scripture to explore historical biblical theological cultural and practical aspects of this discussion Igualitarismo bíblico: Explorando as perspectivas teológicas, culturais e práticas Jack O. helps readers explore and understand this crucial issue from a Christian perspective Now revised and updated throughout this new edition of a successful textbook covers standard cultural anthropology topics with special attention given to cultural relativism evolution and missions It also includes a new chapter on medical anthropology Plentiful figures photos and sidebars are sprinkled throughout the text and updated ancillary support materials and teaching aids are available through Baker Academic s Textbook eSources

Very God, Very Man Tyler J. R. Harper, 2015 In opposition to the historical context of twentieth century human centered religion Karl Barth argues for a theologically based anthropology fixing human self knowledge on divine revelation and so constructing his understanding of humanity from within his Christology In founding his concept of humanity on the reality of Christ Barth is able to avoid the twin pitfalls of optimistic and pessimistic descriptions of humanity in the surrounding zeitgeist Barth s anthropology depicts the existence of true humanity as it is only made possible and represented by the person of Jesus Christ who is simultaneously God for humanity and humanity for God For Barth this is humankind as it was created to be This thesis examines Barth s corpus to answer the question Does a coherent theological treatment of humanity exist throughout Barth s corpus as it is grounded in the person of Jesus Christ

Crowned with Glory and Honor Michael A. Wilkinson, 2024-03-06 Jesus defines what it means to be human The field of theological anthropology is at a standstill mired in debate between dualist and physicalist perspectives on body and soul In Crowned with Glory and Honor: A Chalcedonian Anthropology Michael A. Wilkinson argues that the man Jesus is the way forward Anthropology should be centered around Jesus God the Son incarnate is true man like us in all things except sin Wilkinson approaches human ontology through Christology by looking to the Chalcedonian Definition and its Christology Chalcedon confesses the man Jesus to be the divine person of the Son subsisting in a human nature A Chalcedonian anthropology extends Jesus s person nature constitution to define what it means to be human A human being is a human person subsisting in a human nature We are more than body and soul because Jesus is so much more

Anthropologies of Orthodox Christianity Candace Lukasik, Sarah Riccardi-Swartz, 2025-11-04 Anthropologically explores the entanglement of theology and politics among contemporary Orthodox Christians Much of the anthropological literature on Christianity tends to concentrate on Protestants and Catholics in the Global South The contemporary scholarly interest in such communities descends from histories of missionization and colonization of these regions as well as a sense of their theological kinship with the secularized visions of Western political and social life Orthodox Christianity however has largely been rendered marginal in mainstream anthropological engagement because of its theological and social alterity from such Western anthropological traditions of knowledge production Because of this Orthodox Christian lifeworlds in and beyond the academy are created contested and transformed in relation to various others whether they be religious political secular or historical with an eye toward a discursive opposition between modernity and Orthodoxy Each of the essays in Anthropologies of Orthodox Christianity texture a new trajectory in the study of this religious tradition that take seriously the theopolitical aspects of Orthodox life through anthropological inquiry The volume engages and moves beyond the tension between populist and institutional framings of religion and critically addresses the ontological gap in both anthropology and theology as social cultural and geopolitical interest in Orthodox Christianity continues to expand and grow Embodied Souls, Ensouled Bodies Marc Cortez, 2011-12-22

The book explores the relationship between Christology and theological anthropology through the lens provided by the theology of Karl Barth and the mind body discussion in contemporary philosophy of mind It thus comprises two major sections The first develops an understanding of Karl Barth's theological anthropology focusing on three major facets 1 the centrality of Jesus Christ for any real understanding of human persons 2 the resources that such a christologically determined view of human nature has for engaging in interdisciplinary discourse and 3 the ontological implications of this approach for understanding the mind body relationship The second part draws on this theological foundation to consider the implications that Christological anthropology has for analyzing and assessing several prominent ways of explaining the mind body relationship Specifically it interacts with two broad categories of theories nonreductive forms of physicalism and holistic forms of dualism After providing a basic summary of each the book applies the insights gained from Barth's anthropology to ascertain the extent to which the two approaches may be considered christologically adequate On Christology, Anthropology, Cognitive Science and the Human Body Martin Claes, 2022-04-07

This book reads texts of Augustine on the topic of the human body in the context of contemporary debates in philosophical theology and relevant authors from the cognitive science of religion Martin Claes focuses particularly on Augustine's special position in the intellectual discourses of Western philosophy free will theodicy theology grace incarnation and humanities anthropology political sciences law arguing that his written work is an excellent point of departure for a multidimensional scholarly approach The reading in this book shows that a different picture emerges if we make the effort to situate Augustine's mature anthropology within contemporary debates in philosophical theology and cognitive science of religion Omnipotence vulnerability suffering but also purification and perfection are discussed in dialogue between patristic and philosophical theology the human offers the clue to concepts of unity in diversity in Christ Catholicity and Emerging Personhood Horan

OFM, Daniel P., 2019-09-26 An exploration of the meaning and identity of the human person in light of a renewed theology of creation the ongoing discoveries of evolution and natural sciences and newly appropriated resources in the theological tradition T. F. Torrance's Christological Anthropology CHRISTOPHER G. WOZNICKI, 2022-06 This book demonstrates the promise of Christology for developing Scottish theologian T F Torrance's theological anthropology T F Torrance's Christological Anthropology Discerning Humanity in Christ engages with several key themes in Torrance's theological anthropology and considers how each one of these topics anthropological method the metaphysics of human nature the imago Dei personhood vocation human destiny can be further developed in light of Christ Chris Woznicki argues that Christology not only holds promise for the task of developing Torrance s insights on humanity but also for developing a constructive account of humanity The volume is valuable reading for scholars of T F Torrance s theology and for those who are interested in the role of Christology in theological anthropology

The Christian Doctrine of Humanity

Zondervan,2018-11-06 Engaging with the Complex Subject of Theological Anthropology Theological anthropology is a complicated doctrinal subject that needs to be elaborated with careful attention to its relation to other major doctrines Among other things it must confess the glory and misery of humanity from creation in the image of God to the fall into a state of sin It must reckon with a holism that spans distinctions between body soul and spirit and a unity that encompasses male and female as well as racial and cultural difference The Christian Doctrine of Humanity represents the proceedings of the sixth annual Los Angeles Theology Conference which sought constructively and comprehensively to engage the task of theological anthropology The twelve diverse essays in this collection include discussions on Human thought and the image of God The relevance of biblical eschatology for philosophical anthropology Living and flourishing in the Spirit Vocation and the oddness of human nature Each of the essays collected in this volume engage with Scripture as well as with others in the field theologians both past and present from different confessions in order to provide constructive resources for contemporary systematic theology and to forge a theology for the future

The Human Condition Udo Schnelle,1996 This book alone of its kind raises basic questions about the way the New Testament understands human existence Udo Schnelle shows how Jesus expresses the relation between human beings and God and how Paul and John develop their theological thought to a substantial degree as anthropology Significant provocative differences between the New Testament and contemporary understandings of human life emerge with clarity
