Near Death In The Icu:

Near Death in the ICU Laurin Bellg, 2015-12-10 For nearly twenty years Laurin Bellg MD has been present at the bedside of critically ill and dying patients As she has worked to create an accepting and supportive relationship with them her patients have shared with her the mysterious experience they sometimes have of apparently seeing beyond our physical world Dr Bellg tells her patients engaging powerful and sometimes humorous stories in her book Near Death in the ICU Stories from Patients Near Death and Why We Should Listen to Them published in 2016 by Sloan Press She also invites us to consider that bearing witness to a patient's near death experience is a respectful and important part of medical care a way for families to support their loved ones and an important part of the patient's healing A board certified critical care physician Dr Bellg is the Chair of Medicine and ICU Medical Director for two busy intensive care units in NE Wisconsin Dr Bellg has also contributed to other publications about near death studies and is an invited speaker throughout the United States on the topic

The Near-death Experiences of Hospitalized Intensive Care Patients Penny Sartori, 2008 Most research into near death experiences NOEs is based on anecdotal accounts which have no medical data to verify proximity to death or support the reports This study is the largest of its kind in the United Kingdom and the first long term prospective study of NOEs in existence

Coma and Near-Death Experience Alan Pearce, Beverley Pearce, 2024-03-05 Examines the experiences of those who have survived comas Demonstrates how a key element of the brain is switched off by coma inducing sedatives allowing the mind to break free from the body Shares proven alternatives to medically induced coma that are safer for treating critically ill patients and kinder for the patients and their families Every day around the world thousands of people are placed in medically induced comas For some coma survivors the experience is an utter blank Others lay paralyzed aware of everything around them but unable to move speak or even blink Many experience alternate lives spanning decades lives they grieve once awakened Some encounter ultra vivid nightmares while others undergo a deep spiritual oneness with the universe or say they have glimpsed the afterlife Examining the beautiful and disturbing experiences of those who have survived comas Alan and Beverley Pearce explore the mysterious levels of consciousness this near death experience unlocks They demonstrate how a key element of the brain is switched off by coma inducing sedatives allowing the mind to break free from the body and experience a greater expansion of consciousness Revealing the dangers of deep sedation and other intensive care procedures the authors show how comas are unnecessary more often than not and that many coma survivors go on to suffer lasting cognitive and physical harm Exploring proven alternatives to medically induced coma they share tried and tested protocols that are safer for critically ill patients and kinder for the patients and their families Showing how we can avoid the suffering caused by comas this book reveals the wide variety of conscious states that can arise during comas both positive and negative and how accepting the reality of these experiences is crucial not only to the recovery of coma survivors but also to the field of consciousness and near death experience NDE studies

Dehumanization in Intensive Care Medicine Iacopo Cappellini, Guglielmo Consales, Chiara Nuti, 2025-07-24 A key part of healthcare in addition to technical knowledge is emotional and spiritual support for the person not just treating the disease This holistic approach of to care rather than just to cure has become increasingly important However in emergency situations or when patients can't interact due to their condition or invasive medical devices the lack of interaction can lead to dehumanization of care particularly in critical areas In recent decades patient care in intensive care units ICUs has achieved new clinical milestones and placed greater emphasis on the quality of life during and after hospitalization including family involvement in the care process This shift is reflected in nursing care which can become sterile monotonous and automatic when dealing with non interactive patients Critical care areas are characterized not only by the critical and unstable clinical conditions of patients and the complexity of the medical nursing approach but also by the delicate and professional management of interpersonal relationships with patients and their actively involved families This important new book written by practicing critical care medical professionals looks at the issues around dehumanization of patients defined as denying individuals their humanity and treating them as objects for medical procedures rather than as real people In contrast humanizing the care process and practice requires intellectual and emotional flexibility listening skills and the ability to adapt and modify care and communication styles with patients and their families in addition to professional competence Recommended for those studying teaching and researching in medical and nursing schools healthcare professionals especially nurses and doctors working in critical care and healthcare administrators

Fleck, 2009-03-30 What does it mean to be a just and caring society when we have only limited resources to meet unlimited health care needs Do we believe that all lives are of equal value Is human life priceless Should a just and caring society refuse to put limits on health care spending In Just Caring Leonard Fleck reflects on the central moral and political challenges of health reform today He cites the millions of Americans who go without health insurance thousands of whom die prematurely unable to afford the health care needed to save their lives Fleck considers these deaths as contrary to our deepest social values and makes a case for the necessity of health care rationing decisions The core argument of this book is that no one has a moral right to impose rationing decisions on others if they are unwilling to impose those same rationing decisions on themselves in the same medical circumstances Fleck argues we can make health care rationing fair in ways that are mutually respectful if we engage in honest rational democratic deliberation Such civic engagement is rare in our society but the alternative is endless destructive social controversy that is neither just nor caring

Palliative Care in Critical Care, An Issue of Critical Care Nursing Clinics of North America Tonja Hartjes,2016-07-22 Intensive care units ICUs provide comprehensive advanced care to patients with serious or life threatening conditions and consequently a significant amount of end of life care EOLC Indeed approximately 20% of deaths in the U S are associated with an ICU stay and nearly half of U S patients who die in hospitals experience an ICU stay during the last 3 days of life Despite the commonality of the ICU experience ICU patients typically suffer from a range of distressing symptoms such as pain fatigue anxiety and dyspnea causing families significant distress on their behalf Thus there is a growing imperative for better provision of palliative care PC in the ICU which may prevent and relieve suffering for patients with life threatening illnesses Effective palliative care is accomplished through aggressive symptom management communication about the patient and family s physical psychosocial and spiritual concerns and aligning treatments with each patient s goals values and preferences PC is also patient centered and uses a multidisciplinary team based approach that can be provided in conjunction with other life sustaining treatments or as a primary treatment approach Failure to align treatment goals with individual and family preferences can create distress for patients families and providers If implemented appropriately palliative care may significantly reduce the health care costs associated with intensive hospital care and help patients avoid the common non person centered treatment that is wasteful distressing and potentially harmful Due to the success of many PC programs administrators providers and accrediting bodies are beginning to understand that palliative care in the ICU is vital to optimal patient outcomes
