Bartók and His World Peter Laki,2020-10-06 B la Bart k who died in New York fifty years ago this September is one of the most frequently performed twentieth century composers He is also the subject of a rapidly growing critical and analytical literature Bart k was born in Hungary and made his home there for all but his last five years when he resided in the United States As a result many aspects of his life and work have been accessible only to readers of Hungarian The main goal of this volume is to provide English speaking audiences with new insights into the life and reception of this musician especially in Hungary Part I

begins with an essay by Leon Botstein that places Bartók in a large historical and cultural context László Somfai reports on the catalog of Bartók's works that is currently in progress Peter Laki shows the extremes of the composer's reception in Hungary while Tibor Tallián surveys the often mixed reviews from the American years The essays of Carl Leafstedt and Vera Lampert deal with his librettists Béla Balázs and Melchior Lengyel respectively David Schneider addresses the artistic relationship between Bartók and Stravinsky Most of the letters and interviews in Part II concern Bartók's travels and emigration as they reflected on his personal life and artistic evolution Part III presents early critical assessments of Bartók's work as well as literary and poetic responses to his music and personality

Are national galleries different from other kinds of art gallery or museum What value is there for the nation in a collection of international masterpieces How are national galleries involved in the construction national art National Galleries is the first book to undertake a panoramic view of a type of national institution which are sometimes called national museums of fine art that is now found in almost every nation on earth Adopting a richly illustrated globally inclusive comparative view Simon Knell argues that national galleries should not be understood as great galleries but as peculiar sites where art is made to perform in acts of nation building A book that fundamentally rewrites the history of these institutions and encourages the reader to dispense with elitist views of their worth Knell reveals an unseen geography and a rich complexity of performance He considers the ways the national galleries entangle art and nation and the differing trajectories and purposes of international and national art Exploring galleries artists and artworks from around the world National Galleries is an argument about how we think about and study these institutions Privileging the situatedness of each national gallery performance and valuing localism over universalism Knell looks particularly at how national art is constructed and represented He ends with examples that show the mutability of national art and by questioning the necessity of art nationalism Area Handbook for Hungary American University (Washington, D.C.). The Iconographic Encyclopaedia of the Arts and Sciences: Sculpture and painting, 1887 Motherland and Progress József Sisa, 2016-11-21 In the 19th century Hungary witnessed unprecedented social economic and cultural development The country became an equal partner within the Dual Monarchy when the Austro-Hungarian Compromise of 1867 was concluded Architecture and all forms of design flourished as never before A distinctly Central European taste emerged in which the artistic presence of the German speaking lands was augmented by the influence of France and England As this process unfolded attempts were made to find a uniquely Hungarian form based on motifs borrowed from peasant art as well as real or fictitious historical antecedents Motherland and Progress the motto of 19th century Hungarian reformers reflected the programme embraced by the country in its drive to define its identity and shape its future The Museum Age in

Austria-Hungary Matthew Rampley, Markian Prokopovych, Nóra Veszprémi, 2021-02-15 This important critical study of the history of public art museums in Austria Hungary explores their place in the wider history of European museums and collecting their role as public institutions and their involvement in the complex cultural politics of the Habsburg Empire Focusing on institutions in Vienna Cracow Prague Zagreb and Budapest The Museum Age in Austria Hungary traces the evolution of museum culture over the long nineteenth century from the 1784 installation of imperial art collections in the Belvedere Palace as a gallery open to the public to the dissolution of Austria Hungary after the First World War Drawing on source materials from across the empire the authors reveal how the rise of museums and display was connected to growing tensions between the efforts of Viennese authorities to promote a cosmopolitan and multinational social political and cultural identity on the one hand and on the other the rights of national groups and cultures to self expression They demonstrate the ways in which museum collecting policies practices of display and architecture engaged with these political agendas and how museums reflected and enabled shifting forms of civic identity emerging forms of professional practice the production of knowledge and the changing composition of the public sphere Original in its approach and sweeping in scope this fascinating study of the museum age of Austria Hungary will be welcomed by students and scholars interested in the cultural and art history of Central Europe
