The Journal of Education, 1914 College Rankings Luke Myers, Jonathan Robe, 2009 Today college quality rankings in news magazines and guidebooks are a big business with tangible impacts on the operation of higher education institutions The college rankings published annually by U S News and World Report U S News are so influential that Don Hossler of Indiana University derisively claims that higher education is the victim of management by the magazine How did academic quality rankings of colleges and universities become so powerful in higher education A review of their historical development in the first section of this study may surprise many readers While college professors and administrators alike largely decry rankings today their origin lies in academia itself Begun as esoteric studies by lone professors college rankings development into the most popularly accepted assessment of academic quality was fueled by the very institutions of higher education they now judge While the purpose and design of academic quality rankings has evolved during the century since their creation their history teaches one clear lesson college rankings fill a strong consumer demand for information about institutional quality and as such are here to stay for the foreseeable future Various approaches to college rankings have different benefits and each is subject to legitimate criticism all of which should be seriously considered in light of the powerful effects that a widely distributed ranking can have on institutions of higher education and the students seeking to enter them Sections II and III will explore these aspects of college rankings respectively In light of the historical lessons revealed in Section I however movements that seek to reform college rankings should be focused on producing better rankings rather than on trying to eliminate or ignore them Section IV will survey multiple new indicators of academic quality that many view as potential improvements over the indicators upon which current college rankings are based Contains 2 figures 6 tables and 116 endnotes

Academic Quality Rankings of American Colleges and Universities David S. Webster, 1986 World University Rankings Kay Cheng Soh, 2017 World university ranking started one and a half decades ago for the purpose of understanding what makes an excellent institution of higher education Subsequent to the appearance of the Academic

Ranking of World Universities at the Shanghai Jiaotong University there soon emerged the QS World University Rankings and the Times Higher Education World University Rankings These three ranking systems are considered the classics as they are the fore runners although no less than ten new systems have come to the arena The various ranking systems adopt a common approach of weight and sum to process the indicator data Each system somewhat arbitrarily decides on a set of indicators and assigns different weights to these presumably reflecting their relative importance This simple and simplistic approach meets well common sense And in fact much of the discussion on world university rankings is conducted at the commonsensical level However analyses conducted in the recent years uncovered several problems of the prevalent approach spurious precision mutual compensation weight discrepancy indicator redundancy etc which render the overall scores and ranking suspect in terms of validity These are due to systems ignoring the fact that world university rankings are a form of social measurement and therefore need be seen from this perspective Moreover rankings encourage competition and in the highly competitive world of today it is natural that institutional attention is focused on the ranking results By now the original purpose of world university ranking seems to have been overshadowed and world university rankings look more like international academic contests as though they are annual sports meets This monograph collects together many articles pertaining to the identified measurement and statistical issues of world university rankings and suggests remedies to make ranking results more trustworthy
