

Development of Wine & Other Alcohol Beverages – using Flavourmax's Spinning Cone Column and Batch Adsorption Column Technologies

Over centuries, the art of winemaking and other alcoholic beverages, beer, cider and spirits continues to grow in popularity. However, the more products being readily drunk by consumers is exactly what is required. However, in recent years, governments have made use of regulations that increasingly has increased and determined limits on alcohol being drunk in an effort to reduce alcohol consumption across the globe.

As higher quality raw materials become more readily available, the market is becoming increasingly competitive, and this is increasing pressure on producers to produce high quality products.

Flavourmax's Spinning Cone Column (SCC) and Batch Adsorption Column (BAC) technologies are the technology needed to meet high quality targets for alcohol.

Distillation

Typically, further needs, added refinement is required during an essential part of the distilling process to achieve, separate and purify the alcohol. This is a function of technology available for removing unwanted taste, beer, cider and spirits. These technologies include distillation techniques, partial vacuum distillation, and (recent years) distillation with the lower temperature controlled the quality and more efficient process.

The Spinning Cone Column, Flavourmax's, can produce about 100% of the alcohol in the distillation and does not require more than existing distillation technology of towers and columns.

The Spinning Cone Column

The SCC was developed and commercialised in the 1980's by the Australian company Flavourmax, with its unique ability to gently and efficiently remove volatile components from all kinds of chemical, natural or other liquids. It was specifically designed as an ideal method for isolating alcohol in wine and beer.

The key attributes of the SCC is its ability to maintain product quality, and with spinning distillation of between 20-40% reduction (down to 10% alcohol) and the ability to produce 99.99% alcohol. The SCC is considered the best in class.

Distillation with SCC is typically done in the following steps:

Step 1 - The product's original purity (approximately 1% of the initial product volume) is reduced from the product of alcohol (20-40% by 20-40% concentration to a lower strength, highly and suited for reduction to a lower stage.

Step 2 - The entire reduced product is then re-produced at around 20-40% (again, it may then be reduced to remove the bulk of the alcohol). Actual levels in the product using the SCC will typically be between 0.1% and 0.2% after product has adjusted depending on requirements. Additionally, the stated reduction is in the form of a high-quality spirit that can be sold, used in other applications or unadorned through another of Flavourmax's technologies.
