Book Jungle Fighters Firsthand Forgotten Campaign:

Jungle Fighters Jules Archer, 2016-01-19 In the early stages of the Pacific War General Douglas MacArthur was expected to prevent the Japanese from taking Australia With limited forces MacArthur had to be tactical and the key to the continent's defense was the island of New Guinea just above the northeast tip of Australia In order to defend New Guinea MacArthur sent a small task force to Milne Bay where the Coral Sea rounded the southeast tip of the island His plan to establish an airfield base for bomber and fighter planes that could attack enemy invasion convoys as they rounded the tip of New Guinea to attack Australia In the fall of 1941 at the age of twenty six Jules Archer joined the US Armed Forces A few months later he joined MacArthur as a member of the small task force being sent to New Guinea With good reason not to expect to return alive Archer and his troop were plunged into a new kind of war They fought in a jungle among a primitive Melanesian people some tribes of which were headhunters For nearly four years they endured in the distant jungle This is an inside look at one of the lesser known stories of one of the worst wars the world has known It's a story of the absurdities fears camaraderie and even humor of life as a wartime soldier

The Battle of Milne Bay 1942 Nicholas

Anderson, 2018-08-05 By 1942 the formidable Japanese military had conquered swathes of territory across south east Asia and the Pacific Ocean Despite its defeat at the Battle of Midway Japan remained a potent enemy committed to the creation of a defensive arc to shield its captured possessions in the Pacific The capture of Port Moresby would cement the southern border of this defensive arc and sever the vital lines of communication between Australia and the United States It was the Japanese plan to seize Moresby that would set the course for the Battle of Milne Bay Situated on the eastern tip of New Guinea Milne Bay was a wretched hell hole swamp riddled a haven for malaria and cursed with torrential rain It was here that General Douglas MacArthur ordered the secret construction of an Allied base with airfields to protect the maritime approach to Port Moresby But the Japanese soon discovered the base at Milne Bay and despatched a task force to destroy its garrison and occupy the base All that stood between the Japanese and their prize was a brigade of regular Australian soldiers untrained in tropical warfare and a brigade of Australian militia with no combat experience whatsoever While the Kokoda campaign is etched in public memory its sister battle at Milne Bay has long been neglected However the bitter fighting over this isolated harbour played an equally important role in protecting Port Moresby and made a valuable contribution to shifting Allied fortunes in the Pacific War

Trial by Battle David Piper, Alan Jeffreys, 2019-05-09 October 1941 Twenty one year old Alan Mart is posted to India and taken under the wing of the dogmatic overbearing Acting Captain Sam Holl Following the Japanese advance on Singapore the men are deployed to Malaya What follows is a quietly shattering and searingly authentic depiction of the claustrophobia of jungle warfare and ultimately the futility of war

Second Arakan 1943-44 Tim Moreman, 2025-02-27 A detailed examination of one of the crucial campaigns of World War II in Burma in which British and Commonwealth forces achieved their first decisive victory over Japanese arms The hard fought Second Arakan campaign was a second attempt by Allied arms to advance in the coastal Arakan region in western Burma following a failed first effort in early 1943. The battles fought shattered the myth of Japanese invincibility that had for over two years crippled the Allied cause and for the first time offered the prospect of successful offensive operations against the Japanese in Burma. Military historian Tim Moreman examines the wide range of actions that made up the Second Arakan campaign from XV Indian Corps initial push down the Burmese coast towards Akyab Island to the key events of the major Japanese Ha Go operation launched by Twenty Eighth Army. These include the Battle of the Admin Box near Sinweyza where the surrounded 7th Indian Division inflicted a serious defeat on the Japanese 55th Division, the reinforcement of Imphal and Kohima and the seizure of Razabil the Tunnels and Point 551 between March and May 1944. Packed with maps, diagrams, battlescene artworks and photographs that guide the reader through this complex campaign in easy to follow detail, this work provides a must have illustrated companion to this decisive victory for British and Commonwealth arms over the Imperial Japanese Army. A Battalion in Burma Mark Forsdike, 2025-11-04. A history of the Second Suffolk 5th Indian Division during World War II's Burma campaign. Between December 1943 and August 1944, Second Suffolk as part of the 5th Indian Division played a key role opposing the Japanese in Burma and later at the critical battle at Imphal. The odds could not have been higher or the challenges greater. The Japanese had already earned an awesome reputation as a formidable and ruthless enemy who could only be described as fanatical. The rugged jungle terrain over which the Battalion had to fight was tough and unforgiving and pushed all ranks to the limits of their physical and mental endurance. Against them too was the harsh tropical climate and the extremes of the monsoon season. The combination of these three factors called for the highest standards of leadership and discipline. Supplies too were often not forthcoming but despite these difficulties and a lack of appreciation of their efforts in the press at home, morale of the stolid regular Suffolk soldier and his newer drafted comrades always remained high as they learned to fight their enemy in the way that he fought him. For over seventy five years their story has remained largely forgotten and untold but now drawing on previously unpublished accounts of those who served there together with unpublished photographs, this book describes the Battalion's outstanding service during the Burma Campaign. Military Review, 2005. Understanding War Christian P. Potholm, 2016-08-03. The third book in Professor Christian Potholm's war trilogy which includes Winning at War and War Wisdom. Understanding War provides a most workable bibliography dealing with the vast literature on war and warfare. As such it provides insights into over 3000 works on this overwhelmingly extensive material. Understanding War is thus the most comprehensive annotated bibliography available today. Moreover by dividing war material into eighteen overarching themes of analysis and fifty seminal topics and focusing on these, Understanding War enables the reader to access and understand the broadest possible array of materials across both time and space, beginning with the earliest forms of warfare and concluding with the contemporary situation. Stimulating and thought provoking, this volume is essential for an understanding of the breadth and depth of the vast scholarship dealing with
