Herbal Homekeeping Sandy Maine,1999 Fresh fragrant soaps and scrubs for every room fast fun safe techniques that really work Middle Class African Marriage Christine Oppong,2023-07-05 In the 1970s among peoples of the third world migration paid employment and urban living had caused changes in domestic economies in decision making in households and in the sexual division of labour and power This was particularly so in areas formerly subjected to colonial domination and therefore the influence of European mores and institutions This book previously published in 1974 as Marriage Among a Matrilineal Elite this edition in 1981 provides one of the few detailed accounts of such changes by a writer who has lived the kind of life she describes that of the urban educated Akan of Southern Ghana people who have migrated from farming and fishing villages to Accra the capital to find employment in government institutions after protracted higher education often overseas The study is particularly interesting because it focuses upon people from an ethnic area practicing matrilineal descent and inheritance in which women and men have traditionally both worked in agriculture in which husbands and wives have customarily resided in separate houses affording both sexes considerable autonomy as spouses and in which women have held important political offices as well as sharing responsibilities for maintenance of dependent children Akan women provide an important model of responsible energetic females who have in the past and to some extent in the present avoided the domestic trap of wifely dependence But as we read the trap is open to those who forsake traditional patterns of economic endeavour or whose resources vis vis their men folk are reduced The book was also a significant contribution to the comparative sociology of the family at the time providing an exercise in methodology in which the aim has been to evolve ways of documenting and comparing two major aspects of change in conjugal family relationships On one hand the division of labour resources and power between spouses the jointness or segregation of the conjugal role relationship and on the other the extent to which the conjugal family is a functionally discrete unit in a number of domestic activity areas in popular and ambiguous terms whether the family is extended or nuclear The use of sociological concepts developed in other areas of the world gives this book a significant position in the development of a cross culturally valid sociology of the family The subject matter and conceptual frameworks used here will thus be of interest to sociologists economists and anthropologists in general and to specialists in African and Black studies Women s Studies and Sex Roles in particular as well as to the male and female feminists around the world Arthur's Illustrated Home Magazine ,1876
