Gerrish outlines some of the key ideas that enable intelligent machines to perceive and interact with the world. He describes the software architecture that allows self-driving cars to stay on the road and to navigate crowded urban environments, the million-dollar Netflix competition for a better recommendation engine which had an unexpected ending, and how programmers trained computers to perform certain behaviors by offering them treats as if they were training a dog. He explains how artificial neural networks enable computers to perceive the world and to play Atari video games better than humans. He explains Watson's famous victory on Jeopardy and he looks at how computers play games describing AlphaGo and Deep Blue which beat reigning world champions at the strategy games of Go and chess. Computers have not yet mastered everything, however.
