

Next-Level HPMS For All-Hazard Trace Detection and Identification

ALL-HAZARD THREAT DETECTION

MX908™ leverages high-pressure trace spectrometry™ (HPMS) to deliver dramatically enhanced sensitivity and detection through a single coverage. The second-generation tool provides a robust system with sophisticated features and trace detection power that also incorporates a chemical, qualitative, and primary hazard analysis. MX908 lightens the overall technology burden by replacing other less-effective technologies from the response toolkit.

LIGHTENING THE LOAD

With the enhanced performance of high-pressure trace spectrometry (HPMS), users can lighten the technology load of tools required otherwise. With construction tools complete with the like essential trace spectrometry (TMS) and organic gas detection, MX908 can detect higher quantities (low) and a full list of primary chemical agents. The removal of unnecessary tool pieces often lessens tool technologies.
