Music And Social Change In South Africa Maskanda Past And Present:

Music and Social Change in South Africa Kathryn Olsen, 2014-10-03 Music and Social Change in South Africa looks at contemporary maskanda a folk musical genre distinguished by fast guitar picking and blues style vocal intonation against the backdrop of South Africa's history A performance practice that emerged in the early decades of the twentieth century among Zulu migrant workers maskanda is strongly associated with young Zulu men's experiences of repression and dislocation during imperial and more particularly apartheid rule Working closely with translated song lyrics and musical notation and applying musical and socio political analysis to this music and its cultural context Olsen argues that maskanda offers insight into how the post apartheid ideal of social transformation is experienced by those who were marginalized for most of the twentieth century Drawing on a decade of research Olsen strives to demystify the Zulu part of contemporary experience in South Africa and to reveal some of the complexities of the social economic and political landscape of contemporary South Africa

The Land Is Sung Thomas M. Pooley, 2023-10-17 What does it mean to belong In The Land is Sung musicologist Thomas M Pooley shows how performances of song dance and praise poetry connect Zulu communities to their ancestral homes and genealogies For those without land tenure in the province of KwaZulu Natal performances articulate a sense of place Migrants express their allegiances through performance and spiritual relationships to land are embodied in rituals that invoke ancestral connection while advancing well being through intergenerational communication Engaging with justice and environmental ethics education and indigenous knowledge systems musical and linguistic analysis and the ethics of recording practice Pooley's analysis draws on genres of music and dance recorded in the midlands and borderlands of South Africa and in Johannesburg's inner city His detailed sound writing captures the visceral experiences of performances in everyday life The book is richly illustrated and there is a companion website featuring both video and audio examples

The Bloomsbury Handbook of Popular Music, Space and Place Geoff Stahl, J. Mark Percival, 2022-01-13 Popular music scholars have long been interested in the connection between place and music This collection brings together a number of key scholars in order to introduce readers to concepts and theories used to explore the relationships between place and music An interdisciplinary volume drawing from sociology geography ethnomusicology media cultural and communication studies this book covers a wide range of topics germane to the production and consumption of place in popular music Through considerations of changes in technology and the mediascape that have shaped the experience of popular music vinyl iPods social media the role of social difference and how it shapes sociomusical encounters queer spaces gendered and racialised spaces as well as the construction and representations of place musical tourism city branding urban mythologies this is an up to the moment overview of central discussions about place and music The contributors explore a range of contexts moving from the studio to the stage the city to the suburb the bedroom to festival from nightclub to museum with each entry highlighting the diverse and complex ways in which music and place are mutually constitutive

Noise as a

Constructive Element in Music Mark Delaere, 2022-09-12 Music and noise seem to be mutually exclusive Music is generally considered as an ordered arrangement of sounds pleasing to the ear and noise as its opposite chaotic ugly aggressive sometimes even deafening When presented in a musical context noise can thus act as a tool to express resistance to predominant cultural values to society or to socioeconomic structures including those of the music industry The oppositional stance confirms current notions of noise as something which is destructive a belief not only cherished by hard core rock bands but also shared by engineers and companies developing devices to suppress or reduce noise in our daily environment In contrast to the common opinions on noise just described this volume seeks to explore the constructive potential of noise in contemporary musical practices Rather than viewing noise as a defect this volume aims at studying its aesthetic and cultural potential Within the noise music study field most recent publications focus on subgenres such as psychedelic post rock industrial hard core punk trash or rave as they developed from rock and popular music This book includes work on avant garde music developed in the domain of classical music as well In addition to already well established social historical and aesthetical perspectives on noise and noise music this volume offers contributions by music analysts

Music Performance Encounters John Koslovsky, Michiel Schuijjer, 2023-11-29 Why do most musical performers and musical researchers continue to inhabit divergent epistemic spaces To what extent is the act of musical performance coextensive with the act of doing musical research and vice versa At what point in the research process can a performative act transform into a scholarly one and a scholarly act into a performative one These and other related questions form the central focus of this book with each chapter offering a fresh perspective on a particular topic in music performance studies improvisational traditions historical performance practices analysis and performance sports psychology cross cultural musical interactions and institutional challenges This book is aimed at music researchers teachers students and practising musicians interested in the intersection of academic and performance research as such it seeks to bridge the divide between the research of university trained musicologists scholars from other fields who focus on music and the growing community of musical artist researchers Material in this book is supported by performance outcomes offered by the contributors on a separate YouTube channel and on the Routledge online portal

Dust of the Zulu Louise Meintjes, 2017-07-20 In Dust of the Zulu Louise Meintjes traces the political and aesthetic significance of ngoma a competitive form of dance and music that emerged out of the legacies of colonialism and apartheid in South Africa Contextualizing ngoma within South Africa's history of violence migrant labor the HIV epidemic and the world music market Meintjes follows a community ngoma team and its professional subgroup during the twenty years after apartheid's end She intricately ties aesthetics to politics embodiment to the voice and masculine anger to eloquence and virtuosity relating the visceral experience of ngoma performances as they embody the expanse of South African history Meintjes also shows how ngoma helps build community cultivate responsible manhood and provide its participants with a means to reconcile South Africa's past with its postapartheid future Dust of the

Zulu includes over one hundred photographs of ngoma performances the majority taken by award winning photojournalist TJ Lemon

Song Walking Angela Impey, 2018-11-28 Song Walking explores the politics of land its position in memories and its foundation in changing land use practices in western Maputaland a borderland region situated at the juncture of South Africa Mozambique and Swaziland Angela Impey investigates contrasting accounts of this little known geopolitical triangle offsetting textual histories with the memories of a group of elderly women whose songs and everyday practices narrativize a century of borderland dynamics Drawing evidence from women s walking songs amaculo manihamba once performed while traversing vast distances to the accompaniment of the European mouth harp isitweletwele she uncovers the manifold impacts of internationally driven transboundary environmental conservation on land livelihoods and local senses of place This book links ethnomusicological research to larger themes of international development environmental conservation gender and local economic access to resources By demonstrating that development processes are essentially cultural processes and revealing how music fits within this frame Song Walking testifies to the affective spatial and economic dimensions of place while contributing to a more inclusive and culturally apposite alignment between land and environmental policies and local needs and practices

Sounds of Change Stig-Magnus Thorsén, 2004 South African Journal of Musicology ,1999 Hearing Maskanda Barbara Titus, 2022-01-13 Hearing Maskanda outlines how people make sense of their world through practicing and hearing maskanda music in South Africa Having emerged in response to the experience of forced labour migration in the early 20th century maskanda continues to straddle a wide range of cultural and musical universes Maskanda musicians reground ideas hi stories norms speech and beliefs that have been uprooted in centuries of colonial and apartheid rule by using specific musical textures vocalities and idioms With an autoethnographic approach of how she came to understand and participate in maskanda Titus indicates some instances where her acts of knowledge formation confronted bridged or invaded those of other maskanda participants Thus the book not only aims to demonstrate the epistemic importance of music and aurality but also the performative and creative dimension of academic epistemic approaches such as ethnography historiography and music analysis that aim towards conceptualization and visual representation In doing so the book unearths the colonialist potential of knowledge formation at large and disrupts modes of thinking and academic research that are globally normative

All mixed up Dominique Santos, 2013 Tragediia sovetskoï derevni ,1999 In Township Tonight! David Bellin Coplan, 1985 This pioneering social history of black South Africa s urban music dance and theatre established itself as a classic soon after its publication in 1985 As the first substantial history of black performing arts in South Africa it was championed by a broad range of scholars and treasured by fans of South African music Now completely revised expanded and updated this new edition takes account of developments over the last thirty years while reflecting on the massive changes in South African politics and society since the end of the apartheid era Static Adam Haupt, 2012

Afro-American Music, South Africa, and Apartheid Charles Hamm, 1988 Sounds of Change S-M (Stig-Magnus) Thorsen, 2004 Music, Modernity, and the Global Imagination Veit Erlmann, 1999-06-03

How was Africa seen by the West during the colonial period How do Europeans and Americans conceive of Africa in today's postcolonial era Such questions have preoccupied anthropologists historians and literary scholars for years But few have asked the reverse how did and do Africans see Europe and the United States Fewer still have wondered how Western images of Africa and African representations of the West might mirror one another In a detailed study spanning from the late nineteenth century to the present renowned anthropologist and ethnomusicologist Veit Erlmann examines the very creation of a global imagination for black South Africans Europeans and African Americans To this end he explores two striking episodes in the history of black South African music The first is a pair of tours made by two black South African choirs in England and America in the early 1890s the second is a series of engagements with the international music industry as experienced by the premier choral group Ladysmith Black Mambazo after the release of Paul Simon's celebrated Graceland album in 1986 Readers will find the cast of characters involved in these intertwined and international dramas at once telling and impressive Among the many players are African National Congress co-founder Saul Msane Queen Victoria African American musician and impresario Orpheus McAdoo Xhosa Christian prophet Ntsikana W E B Du Bois Michael Jackson and Spike Lee Music Modernity and the Global Imagination tells the story of how these artists activists and agents effectively invented each other in travel diaries religious hymns concert performances music videos Broadway plays and autobiographies Erlmann also argues that the resultant mixture of myths and fictions as distinctly imagined by these diverse historical actors entangled South Africa and the West in ways that often obscured the newly emergent global imbalances of power or else blurred the polarities of the colonial and postcolonial world Ultimately this book reports on a transatlantic dialogue that carries direct and profound implications for the world's arts and cultures It is the black diasporic discussion between South Africa and the West and it is a conversation about society music and Utopia that is still in progress Music to Move the Masses Claudia Mohr, 2011

In Township Tonight! David Bellin Coplan, 2008 David B Coplan's pioneering social history of black South Africa's urban music dance and theatre established itself as a classic soon after its publication in 1985 Now completely revised expanded and updated this new edition takes account of developments over the last thirty years while reflecting on the massive changes in South African politics and society since the end of the apartheid era In vivid detail Coplan comprehensively explores more than three centuries of the diverse history of South Africa's black popular culture taking readers from indigenous musical traditions into the world of slave orchestras pennywhistlers clergyman composers the gumboot dances of mineworkers and touring minstrelsy and vaudeville acts
