Music, Brain, and Rehabilitation: Emerging Therapeutic Applications and Potential Neural Mechanisms Teppo Särkämö, Eckart Altenmüller, Antoni Rodríguez-Fornells, Isabelle Peretz, 2016-08-05 Music is an important source of enjoyment learning and well being in life as well as a rich powerful and versatile stimulus for the brain With the advance of modern neuroimaging techniques during the past decades we are now beginning to understand better what goes on in the healthy brain when we hear play think and feel music and how the structure and function of the brain can change as a result of musical training and expertise For more than a century music has also been studied in the field of neurology where the focus has mostly been on musical deficits and symptoms caused by neurological illness e g amusia musicogenic epilepsy or on occupational diseases of professional musicians e g focal dystonia hearing loss Recently however there has been increasing interest and progress also in adopting music as a therapeutic tool in neurological rehabilitation and many novel music based rehabilitation methods have been developed to facilitate motor cognitive emotional and social functioning of infants children and adults suffering from a debilitating neurological illness or disorder Traditionally the fields of music neuroscience and music therapy have progressed rather independently but they are now beginning to integrate and merge in clinical neurology providing novel and important information about how music is processed in the damaged or abnormal brain how structural and functional recovery of the brain can be enhanced by music based rehabilitation methods and what neural mechanisms underlie the therapeutic effects of music Ideally this information can be used to better understand how and why music works in rehabilitation and to develop more effective music based applications that can be targeted and tailored towards individual rehabilitation needs The aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research across multiple disciplines with a special focus on music brain and neurological rehabilitation We encourage researchers working in the field to submit a paper presenting either original empirical research novel theoretical or conceptual perspectives a review or methodological advances related to following two core topics 1 how are musical skills and attributes e g perceiving music experiencing music emotionally playing or singing affected by a developmental or acquired neurological illness or disorder for example stroke aphasia brain injury Alzheimer s disease Parkinson s disease autism ADHD dyslexia focal dystonia or tinnitus and 2 what is the applicability effectiveness and mechanisms of music based rehabilitation methods for persons with a neurological illness or disorder Research methodology can include behavioural physiological and or neuroimaging techniques and studies can be either clinical group studies or case studies studies of healthy subjects are applicable only if their findings have clear clinical implications The Musical Brain Lois Svard,2023 For centuries poets and philosophers have written about the power of music often suggesting that music is the essence of life itself that music lives within us that we are music Scientists have dismissed these writings as flights of poetic fancy or perhaps metaphor or artistic license They have considered music to be a product of culture and that s the way musicians have studied music as well But have poets and philosophers perhaps had a better sense of the true nature of music Have they been right all along in suggesting that music is life itself Every Brain Needs Music Lawrence Sherman,Dennis Plies,2023-05-16 Whenever a person engages with music when a piano student practices a scale a jazz saxophonist riffs on a melody a teenager sobs to a sad song or a wedding guest gets down on the dance floor countless neurons are firing Playing an instrument requires all of the resources of the nervous system including cognitive sensory and motor functions Composition and improvisation are remarkable demonstrations of the brain s capacity for creativity Something as seemingly simple as listening to a tune involves mental faculties most of us don t even realize we have Larry S Sherman a neuroscientist and lifelong musician and Dennis Plies a professional musician and teacher collaborate to show how our brains and music work in harmony They consider music in all the ways we encounter it teaching learning practicing listening composing improvising and performing in terms of neuroscience as well as music pedagogy showing how the brain functions and even changes in the process Every Brain Needs Music draws on leading behavioral cellular and molecular neuroscience research as well as surveys of more than a hundred musical people It provides new perspectives on learning to play teaching how to practice and perform the ways we react to music and why the brain benefits from musical experiences Written for both musical and nonmusical people including newcomers to brain science this book is a lively and easy to read exploration of the neuroscience of music and its significance in our lives The Influence of Music on Behavior Charles M. Diserens,1926

Processes of Believing: The Acquisition, Maintenance, and Change in Creditions Hans-Ferdinand Angel,Lluís Oviedo,Raymond F. Paloutzian,Anne L.C. Runehov,Rüdiger J. Seitz,2017-04-13 This volume answers the question Why do we believe what we believe It examines current research on the concept of beliefs and the development in our understanding of the process of believing It takes into account empirical findings in the field of neuroscience regarding the processes that underlie beliefs and discusses the notion that beyond the interactive exploratory analysis of sensory information from the complex outside world humans engage in an evaluative analysis by which they attribute personal meaning and relevance to the probabilistic representations of objects and events Beliefs exert a strong influence on behaviour decision making and identifying and solving problems Despite their importance beliefs have until recently not been at the centre of scientific interest In fact belief is an ill defined phenomenon From a transdisciplinary perspective the actual approaches to understanding belief seem incompatible as they attempt to highlight such different topics as belief religion belief spirituality belief faith belief knowledge belief attitude belief disbelief belief illusion and believing brain function This situation contradicts the idea that belief is close to pathological phenomena and that it should be eliminated from scientific discussions Rather believing is fundamental for understanding the many problems of every day life In fact the book shows that beliefs are relevant for politics international affairs economy law or religions also in modern societies This book presents the increasing scientific interest in beliefs and believing and reflects the change in focus from the content aspect of belief towards the fluid nature of believing
