

DARK, EROTIC, SUSPENSE

A woman with dark, wavy hair is shown from the chest up, leaning forward with her head tilted back and eyes closed. She is wearing a dark, possibly black, strapless top. Her skin is a light, pale tone. The background is dark and textured, with some golden sparkles or dust particles visible. The title 'my body MINE' is overlaid in a large, golden, serif font. 'my body' is in a smaller, lowercase font, while 'MINE' is in a larger, uppercase font.

How to Do Things with Fictions Joshua Landy, 2012-08-03 Why does Mark's Jesus speak in parables Why does Plato's Socrates make bad arguments Why are Beckett's novels so inscrutable And why don't stage magicians even pretend to summon spirits anymore In a series of captivating chapters on Mark Plato Beckett Mallarm and Chaucer Joshua Landy not only answers these questions but explains why they are worth asking in the first place Witty and approachable How to Do Things with Fictions challenges the widespread assumption that literary texts must be informative or morally improving in order to be of any real benefit It reveals that authors are sometimes best thought of not as entertainers or as educators but as personal trainers of the brain putting their willing readers through exercises designed to fortify specific mental capacities from form giving to equanimity from reason to faith Delivering plenty of surprises along the way that moral readings of literature can be positively dangerous that the parables were deliberately designed to be misunderstood that Plato knowingly sets his main character up for a fall that metaphor is powerfully connected to religious faith that we can sustain our beliefs even when we suspect them to be illusions How to Do Things with Fictions convincingly shows that our best allies in the struggle for more rigorous thinking deeper faith richer experience and greater peace of mind may well be the imaginative writings sitting on our shelves
