This book brings together some of the leading experts in the fields of constitutional law, criminal law, and human rights from the US and the EU to examine the protection of privacy in the digital era as well as the challenges that counterterrorism cooperation between governments pose to human rights. It examines the state of privacy protections on both sides of the Atlantic, the best mechanisms for preserving privacy, and whether the EU and the US should develop joint transnational mechanisms to protect privacy on a reciprocal basis. As technology enables governments to know more and more about their citizens and about the citizens of other nations, this volume offers critical perspectives on how best to respond to one of the most challenging developments of the twenty-first century. We See It All Jon Fasman, 2021-01-26 This investigation into the legal, political, and moral issues surrounding how the police and justice system use surveillance technology asks the question what are citizens of a free country willing to tolerate in the name of public safety As we rethink the scope of police power Jon Fasman's chilling examination of how the police and the justice system use the unparalleled power of surveillance technology how it affects privacy liberty and civil rights becomes more urgent by the day Embedding himself within police departments on both coasts Fasman explores the moral legal and political questions posed by these techniques and tools By zeroing in on how facial recognition automatic license plate readers drones predictive algorithms and encryption affect us personally Fasman vividly illustrates what is at stake and explains how to think through issues of privacy rights civil liberties and public safety How do these technologies impact how police operate in our society How should archaic privacy laws written for an obsolete era that of the landline and postbox be updated Fasman looks closely at what can happen when surveillance technologies are combined and put in the hands of governments with scant regard for citizens civil liberties pushing us to ask Is our democratic culture strong enough to stop us from turning into China with its architecture of control
