Ahram and Christianne S. Falcão,2022-07-24 Usability and User Experience Proceedings of the 13th International Conference on Applied Human Factors and Ergonomics AHFE 2022 July 24 28 2022 New York USA Intellectual Property in the Information Age Jeffrey C. Sun,Benjamin Baez,2010-04-22 This monograph pays special attention to the intellectual property of copyrights and patents It examines how legal parameters competing interests and technological advances take shape in economic political and social contexts that require colleges and universities make intellectual property central to their operations. Economic, political, and social forces are redefining knowledge as property that can be owned, and institutions of higher education as producers of knowledge are central participants in this phenomenon. Debates about intellectual property are rampant, some arguing that knowledge should not become a commodity for exchange, others that intellectual property fosters innovation in society. What is not debatable is the importance of the law for resolving disputes about intellectual property. Today the evolving legal context, association with intellectual property, and technological advancements have created competing interests and demands from individuals, institutions, and even nations. The law is often the realm in which these interests and disputes take place, with more or less satisfying results. Colleges and universities must grapple with not only complex legal issues but also the philosophical and political consequences associated with the conversion of intellectual acts into property. This is the fourth issue in the 34th volume of the Jossey-Bass series ASHE Higher Education Report. Each monograph in the series is the definitive analysis of a tough higher education problem based on thorough research of pertinent literature and institutional experiences. Topics are identified by a national survey. Noted practitioners and scholars are then commissioned to write the reports, with experts providing critical reviews of each manuscript before publication.

The Abundant University Michael D. Smith, 2023-09-19 Why our current system of higher education is financially and morally unsustainable and how to address the crisis with the creative implementation of digital technologies For too long our system of higher education has been defined by scarcity scarcity in enrollment scarcity in instruction and scarcity in credentials In addition to failing students professionally this system has exacerbated social injustice and socioeconomic stratification across the globe In The Abundant University Michael D Smith argues that the only way to create a financially and morally sustainable higher education system is by embracing digital technologies for enrolling instructing and credentialing students the same technologies that we have seen create abundance in access to resources in industry after industry The Abundant University explains how we got our current system why it is such an expensive inefficient mess and how a system based on exclusivity cannot foster inclusivity Smith challenges the resistance to digital technologies that we have already seen among numerous institutions citing the examples of faculty resistance toward digital learning platforms While acknowledging the understandable self preservation instinct of our current system of residential education Smith makes a case for how technology can engender greater educational opportunity and create changes that will benefit students employers and society as a whole

The Changing Governance of the Sciences Richard Whitley, Jochen Gläser, 2008-03-20 This book arose from a conversation between Lars Engwall and Richard Whitley during the 2003 European Group for Organization Studies Colloquium in Copenhagen about important topics for future research We agreed then and this has been amply confirmed by subsequent events that the proliferation of research evaluation schemes especially in Europe was an important feature of the changing relationships between the state universities and scientific research more generally which needed systematic and comparative analysis With the support of the Bank of Sweden Tercentenary Foundation this discussion led to workshops in Uppsala and Manchester involving colleagues from Australia Germany and the Netherlands at which the main framework for such an analysis was developed This framework then formed the basis for the conference at Bielefeld in 2005 at which earlier versions of most of the papers in this volume were presented and extensively discussed We are very grateful for the support of the PRIME network of the European Commission and the Max Planck Institute for the History of Science for this conference as well as the invaluable efforts of Peter Weingart of the University of Bielefeld We are also greatly indebted to the members of the Editorial Board who commented on various drafts of these papers as well as to Aant Elzinga Stefan Kuhlmann Philippe Laredo Arie Rip and Nic Vonortas who acted as referees
