Architect Knows Best Simon Richards, 2016-04-15 The idea that buildings could be used to reform human behaviour and improve society was fundamental to the modernist architecture and planning of people like Walter Gropius Le Corbusier and Jos Luis Sert in the first half of the 20th century Their proposals for functional zoning multi level transport high rise living and machine inspired aesthetics came under attack from the 1950s onwards and many alternative approaches to architecture and planning emerged It was thought that the environmental determinist strand of the discourse was killed off at this time as well This book argues that it was not but on the contrary that it has deepened and diversified Many of the most prominent architect planners continue to design with a view to improving the behaviour of individual people and of society at large By looking at and interviewing major figures and movements of recent years in Britain Europe and America including L on Krier Peter Eisenman Andr s Duany Jane Jacobs Robert Venturi and Denise Scott Brown it demonstrates the myriad ways that architect planners seek to shape human behaviour through buildings In doing so the book raises awareness of this strand within the discourse and examines its different purposes and manifestations It questions whether it is an ineradicable and beneficial part of architecture and planning or a regrettable throwback to a more authoritarian phase discusses why is it seldom acknowledged directly and whether it could be handled more responsibly and with greater understanding Richards does not provide any simple solutions but in conclusion is critical of architect planners who abuse the rhetoric of social reform simply to leverage their attempts to secure building commissions while being more sympathetic towards those who appear to have a sincere desire to improve society through their buildings
