

A hand is holding a white rectangular sign at an angle. The sign has the word "Scholarships" written on it in a large, black, cursive script. The background is a bright blue sky with scattered white clouds. The sun is visible in the lower right, creating a lens flare effect. The hand is positioned on the left side of the frame, holding the bottom left corner of the sign.

Dao and Sign in History Daniel Fried, 2018-10-29 From its earliest origins in the Dao De Jing Daoism has been known as a movement that is skeptical of the ability of language to fully express the truth While many scholars have compared the earliest works of Daoism to language skeptical movements in twentieth century European philosophy and have debated to what degree early Daoism does or does not resemble these recent movements Daniel Fried breaks new ground by examining a much broader array of Daoist materials from ancient and medieval China and showing how these works influenced ideas about language in medieval religion literature and politics Through an extended comparison with a broad sample of European philosophical works the book explores how ideas about language grow out of a given historical moment and advances a larger argument about how philosophical and religious ideas cannot be divided into content and context

Translation as Scholarship Jay Crisostomo, 2019-01-14 In the first half of the 2d millennium BCE translation occasionally depicted semantically incongruous correspondences Such cases reflect ancient scribes substantiating their virtuosity with cuneiform writing by capitalizing on phonologic graphemic semantic and other resemblances in the interlingual space These scholar scribes employed an essential scribal practice analogical hermeneutics an interpretative activity grounded in analogical reasoning and empowered by the potentiality of the cuneiform script Scribal education systematized such practices allowing scribes to utilize these habits in copying compositions and creating translations In scribal education analogical hermeneutics is exemplified in the word list Izi both in its structure and in its occasional bilingualism By examining Izi as a product of the social field of scribal education this book argues that scribes used analogical hermeneutics to cultivate their craft and establish themselves as knowledgeable scribes Within a linguistic epistemology of cuneiform scribal culture translation is a tool in the hands of a knowledgeable scholar Signs in Society Richard J.

Parmentier, 1994-06-22 Richard Parmentier takes up Ferdinand de Saussure's challenge to study the life of signs in society by using semiotic tools proposed by Charles Sanders Peirce He studies how semiotic theory can illuminate highly complex social and cultural practices Writing Around the Ancient Mediterranean Philippa M. Steele, Philip J. Boyes, 2022-10-06 Writing in the ancient Mediterranean existed against a backdrop of very high levels of interaction and contact In the societies around its shores writing was a dynamic practice that could serve many purposes from a tool used by elites to control resources and establish their power bases to a symbol of local identity and a means of conveying complex information and ideas This volume presents a group of papers by members of the Contexts of and Relations between Early Writing Systems CREWS research team and visiting fellows offering a range of different perspectives and approaches to problems of writing in the ancient Mediterranean They focus on practices viewing writing as something that people do within a wider social and cultural context and on adaptations considering the ways in which writing changed and was changed by the people using it

Practices of Comparing Angelika Epple, Walter Erhart, Johannes Grave, 2020-06-22 Practices of comparing shape how we perceive organize and change the world Supposedly innocent practices of comparing play a decisive role in forming categories boundaries and hierarchies but they can also give an impetus to question and change such structures Like almost no other human practice comparing pervades all social political economic and cultural spheres This volume outlines the program of a new research agenda that places comparative practices at the center of an interdisciplinary exploration Its contributions combine case studies with overarching systematic considerations They show what insights can be gained and which further questions arise when one makes a seemingly trivial practice comparing the subject of in depth research

Broekman,Larry Catá Backer,2014-11-06 This volume provides a critical roadmap through the major historical sources of legal semiotics as we know them today The history of legal semiotics now at least a century old has never been written a non event itself pregnant with semiotic possibility As a consequence its sources are seldom clearly exposed and as word object and meaning change are sometimes lost They reach from an English translation of the 1916 inaugural lecture of the first Chair in Legal Significs at the Amsterdam University via mid 20th century studies on property or contract to equally fascinating essays on contemporary semiotic problems produced by former students of the Roberta Kevelson Semiotics Roundtable Seminar at Penn State University 2012 and 2013 Together the materials in this book weave the fabric of semiotics and significs two names for the unfolding of semiotics in law and legal discourse at least until the second half of the 20th century and both of which covered a lawyer s focus on sign and meaning in law The latter is embedded within the cultural imperatives of the civilization that gave these terms meaning and made them an effective tool for the dissection of law its reconstitution as an instrument to be used by the lawyer to advance the interests of her clients and for judges as a means to restructure language as a narrative of law whose power could bend behavior to its strictures Legal semiotics has become an indispensable part of the elite lawyer's toolkit and a fundamental approach to analysis of legal texts Two previous volumes published in 2011 and 2012 explored the conceptual methodological and epistemological progress in the field of legal semiotics the modern forms of semiotics study and the mechanics of meaning making processes by lawyers Yet the great lessons of semiotics requires a focus on the origins of the concepts and frameworks that would become contemporary legal semiotics its origins as an object of the consciousness of meaning making one whose roots as lessons for the oracular conversations of law are expanded in this volume

Bioenergy Crops for Ecosystem Health and Sustainability Alex Baumber,2016-02-22 The growing of crops for bioenergy has been subject to much recent criticism as taking away land which could be used for food production or biodiversity conservation This book challenges some commonly held ideas about biofuels bioenergy and energy cropping particularly that energy crops pose an inherent threat to ecosystems which must be mitigated The book recognises that certain energy crops e.g oil palm for biodiesel have generated sustainability concerns but also asks the question is there a better way of using energy crops to strategically enhance ecosystem functions It draws on numerous case studies including where energy crops have had negative outcomes as well as cases where energy crops have produced benefits for ecosystem health such as soil and water protection from the cropping of willow and poplar in Europe and the use of mallee eucalypts to fight salinity in Western Australia While exploring this central argument the volume also provides a systematic overview of the socio

Greek Slave Systems in their Eastern Mediterranean Context, c.800-146 BC
David M. Lewis, 2018-07-19

The orthodox view of slavery in the ancient Mediterranean holds that Greece and Rome were its only genuine slave societies that is societies in which slave labour contributed significantly to the economy and underpinned the wealth of elites Other societies traditionally labelled societies with slaves are thought to have made little use of slave labour and therefore have been largely ignored in recent scholarship This volume presents a radically different view of the ancient Eastern Mediterranean world showing that elite exploitation of slave labour in Greece and the Near East shared some fundamental similarities although the degree of elite dependence on slaves varied from region to region Whilst slavery was indeed particularly highly developed in Greece and Rome it was also economically entrenched in Carthage and played a not insignificant role in the affairs of elites in Israel Assyria Babylonia and Persia The differing degrees to which Eastern Mediterranean elites exploited slave labour represents the outcome of a complex interplay between cultural economic political geographical and demographic factors Proceeding on a regional basis this book tracks the ways in which local conditions shaped a wide variety of Greek and Near Eastern slave systems and how the legal architecture of slavery in individual regions was altered and adapted to accommodate these needs The result is a nuanced exploration of the economic underpinnings of Greek elite culture that sets its reliance on slavery within a broader historical context and sheds light on the complex circumstances from which it emerged
