Global University Ranking Systems: Methodologies, Impact, and Repercussions Kayyali, Mustafa, 2025-10-15 Global university ranking is a powerful tool in shaping the higher education landscape and influencing student decisions. These rankings develop various methodologies that assess academics, faculty, and research to offer a comparative framework to evaluate an institution. This growing prominence, however, has sparked debate about their accuracy and equity with marginalized and diverse educational missions. Global ranking systems analyze their broad impact on universities and stakeholders and critically examine their long-term repercussions for higher education. Global University Ranking Systems: Methodologies, Impact, and Repercussions explores the intricate world of global university rankings and their profound impact. This book determines how rankings shape global perceptions, determining which universities gain international prestige and which struggle to maintain relevance. Covering topics such as higher education rankings and education, this book is an excellent resource for administrators, faculty, policymakers, researchers, academicians, and more.

Telecommunications Mark L. Goldstein, 2009-11 The U.S. ranks 15th among the 30 democratic nations of the OECD on one measure of broadband, i.e., high-speed Internet subscribership. The FCC has regulatory authority over broadband, and several federal programs fund broadband deployment. This report discusses: 1) the federal broadband deployment policy, principal federal programs, and stakeholders' views of those programs; 2) how the policies of OECD nations with higher subscribership rates compare with U.S. policy; and 3) actions the states have taken to encourage broadband deployment. To address these objectives, the auditor analyzed the broadband policies of the U.S. and other OECD nations and reviewed federal program documentation and budgetary information. Intellectual Property in the Information Age Jeffrey C. Sun, Benjamin Baez, 2010-04-22 This monograph pays special attention to the intellectual property of copyrights and patents. It examines how legal parameters, competing interests, and technological advances take shape in economic, political, and social contexts that require colleges and universities to make intellectual property central to their operations. Economic, political, and social forces are redefining knowledge as property that can be owned, and institutions of higher education as producers of knowledge are central participants in this phenomenon. Debates about intellectual property are rampant, some arguing that knowledge should not become a commodity for exchange, others that intellectual property fosters innovation in society. What is not debatable is the importance of the law for resolving disputes about intellectual property. Today, the evolving legal context associated with intellectual property and technological advancements have created competing interests and demands from individuals, institutions, and even nations. The law is often the realm in which these interests and disputes take place, with more or less satisfying results. Colleges and universities must grapple with not only complex legal issues but also the philosophical and political consequences associated with the conversion of intellectual acts into property. This is the fourth issue in the 34th volume of the Jossey-Bass series, ASHE Higher Education Report. Each monograph in the series is the definitive analysis of a tough higher education problem based on thorough research of pertinent literature and institutional experiences Topics are identified by a national survey Noted practitioners and scholars are then commissioned to write the reports with experts providing critical reviews of each manuscript before publication

The Abundant University Michael D. Smith, 2023-09-19 Why our current system of higher education is financially and morally unsustainable and how to address the crisis with the creative implementation of digital technologies For too long our system of higher education has been defined by scarcity scarcity in enrollment scarcity in instruction and scarcity in credentials In addition to failing students professionally this system has exacerbated social injustice and socioeconomic stratification across the globe In The Abundant University Michael D. Smith argues that the only way to create a financially and morally sustainable higher education system is by embracing digital technologies for enrolling instructing and credentialing students the same technologies that we have seen create abundance in access to resources in industry after industry The Abundant University explains how we got our current system why it s such an expensive inefficient mess and how a system based on exclusivity cannot foster inclusivity Smith challenges the resistance to digital technologies that we have already seen among numerous institutions citing the examples of faculty resistance toward digital learning platforms While acknowledging the understandable self preservation instinct of our current system of residential education Smith makes a case for how technology can engender greater educational opportunity and create changes that will benefit students employers and society as a whole The Economics of Education Steve Bradley,Colin Green,2020-01-17 The Economics of Education A Comprehensive Overview Second Edition offers a comprehensive and current overview of the field of that is broadly accessible economists researchers and students This new edition revises the original 50 authoritative articles and adds Developed US and European and Developing Country perspectives reflecting the differences in institutional structures that help to shape teacher labor markets and the effect of competition on student outcomes Provides international perspectives that describe the origins of key subjects their major issues and proponents their landmark studies and opportunities for future research Increases developing county perspectives and comparisons of cross country institutions Requires no prior knowledge of the economics of education University Autonomy Decline Kirsten Roberts Lyer,Ilyas Saliba,Janika Spannagel,2022-11-23 This book provides empirically grounded insights into the causes trajectories and effects of a severe decline in university autonomy and the relationship to other dimensions of academic freedom by comparing in depth country studies and evidence from a new global timeseries dataset Drawing attention to ongoing discussions on standards for monitoring and assessment of academic freedom at regional and international organizations this book identifies a need for clearer standards on academic freedom and a human rights based definition of university autonomy Further the book calls for accompanying international oversight and the inclusion of criteria related to academic freedom in international university rankings Five expert authored case studies on academic freedom from diverse nations Bangladesh Mozambique India Poland and Turkey are included in the volume Drawing on both qualitative and quantitative evidence the book offers a unique and timely contribution to the field and will be of great interest to scholars researchers and students in the fields of higher education human rights political science and public policy This Open Access book is available at www.taylorfrancis.com and has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4 0 license Missing Pieces V: An alternative Guide to Canadian Post-Secondary Education Denise Doherty-Delorme,2004 Applied Evaluative Informetrics Henk F. Moed,2017-09-08 This book presents an introduction to the field of applied evaluative informetrics dealing with the use of bibliometric or informetric indicators in research assessment It sketches the field s history recent achievements and its potential and limits The book dedicates special attention to the application context of quantitative research assessment It describes research assessment as an evaluation science and distinguishes various assessment models in which the domain of informetrics and the policy sphere are disentangled analytically It illustrates how external non informetric factors influence indicator development and how the policy context impacts the setup of an assessment process It also clarifies common misunderstandings in the interpretation of some often used statistics Addressing the way forward the book expresses the author s critical views on a series of fundamental problems in the current use of research performance indicators in research assessment Highlighting the potential of informetric techniques a series of new features is proposed that could be implemented in future assessment processes It sketches a perspective on altmetrics and proposes new lines in longer term strategic indicator research It is written for interested scholars from all domains of science and scholarship and especially for all those subjected to research assessment research students at advanced master and PhD level research managers funders and science policy officials and to practitioners and students in the field
