Meal prepping is meal that for a meal or recipe then portioning it out to grab and go meals for later If you've ever kept your leftovers from dinner to take with you for lunch then next day then you've already mini meal prepped Granted though meal prepping refers to preparing 3-7 days worth of food at a time Think of it like keeping your lunches for the week all at once instead of keeping your lunch hours running You can use this same technique for breakfast lunch dinner and snacks Meal prepping prevents food waste and reduces time to eat outside your home whether that plan ahead or a budget When keeping your daily food question meal prep will allow you to eat healthy meals without having to do it each day to reduce meal prep not for everyone It is good for those who value convenience and often more than value it With meal prepping you generally eat the same thing for a few days in a row so if you don't like leftovers or get bored with food meal prepping isn't for you If having control over what you're maximizing your time or budget is more valuable to you then doing something different every day meal prep is not for you I've generally not seen a meal prep for themselves or maybe one other person do a whole meal Meal prep for a whole family would be quite difficult but the result would be a meal that is stored in the refrigerator for a slow day in the week In addition to the way food is packed the individual nuances of your refrigerator can impact the health of your refrigerated meal So the food is acceptable having a texture and flavor will be subject to the eater Always begin with the refrigerator guidelines to be the FDA and then value them against your own preferences In general I don't like to eat more than a few days worth of food but I find that about that food usually lasts a month or so
