Regional Economic Outlook, April 2017, Western Hemisphere Department International Monetary Fund. Western Hemisphere Dept.,2017-05-19 With the global economy gaining some momentum economies of Latin America and the Caribbean are recovering from a recession at the regional level in 2016 This gradual improvement can be understood as tale of two adjustments external and fiscal that are ongoing in response to earlier shocks But headwinds from commodity terms of trade shocks and country specific domestic factors are fading paving the way for real GDP to grow by about 1 percent in 2017 Regional activity is expected to pick up further momentum in 2018 but at a slower pace than previously anticipated while medium term growth is projected to remain modest at about 2.6 percent The outlook is shaped by key shifts in the global economic and policy landscape where slow growth low productivity and high income inequality are creating pressure for a shift toward inward looking policies in some advanced economies Domestic fundamentals and developments however will continue to play a significant role in determining growth for the region At the same time risks to the outlook have widened in a setting of higher global uncertainty In this challenging external context countries should aim for completing fiscal and external adjustments to preserve or rebuild policy buffers Charting a course toward higher sustainable and more equitable growth will also require strengthening structural reforms Specifically closing infrastructure gaps improving the business environment governance and education outcomes and encouraging female labor participation are necessary to boost medium term growth and foster income convergence Chapters in this report examine the ongoing external adjustment to terms of trade shifts drivers of capital flows to the region the role of the investor base and macroeconomic impact of migration and remittances

Generational Interdependencies: The Social Implications for Welfare Beverley Searle, 2018-01-15 The issue of generational transfers is growing in importance Populations are ageing placing an increasing burden on provision of pensions health care and other welfare services In many nations the imbalance between a growing older generation supported by a shrinking younger generation has fuelled debates about intergenerational justice The key argument being that political and institutional developments over the last century have been to the advantage of older generations at the expense of current younger and future generations But this only addresses half of the story neglecting the flows of resources through private family channels One key response to the growing fiscal problem of ageing societies has been to focus responsibility on self funding and familial support The growth of asset values particularly housing which are concentrated among the elderly underpin such strategies But this exposes new risks as potentially extractable resources are determined by wider fluctuations in the economy and housing markets in particular Clearly these cohort effects and responses to them play out differently in different national developmental settings depending on long run patterns of economic social and demographic change This collection address these issues and provides original insights across different international contexts The collection focusses on financial and non financial transfers generational interdependencies and the role of labour and housing markets in welfare support set against the changing economic landscape following the Great Financial Crisis of 2007 Although institutional and national differences exist the key emerging issues are the same the financial and welfare challenges of supporting aging in societies inequalities in the availability of assets across individuals families and nations and the extent to which private asset accumulation can support families over the life course Drawing from examples across European countries this collection will nonetheless be relevant to researchers and policy makers in other nations addressing the complexities of providing welfare across the life course in the face of restricted financial resources

Lukauskas, Yumiko Shimabukuro, 2024-12-15 Misery beneath the Miracle in East Asia challenges prevailing views of the East Asian economic miracle Existing scholarship has overlooked the severity persistence and harmful consequences of the social welfare crises affecting the region Arvid J Lukauskas and Yumiko Shimabukuro fill this gap and put a major asterisk on East Asia s economic record Combining big picture analysis abundant data a dynamic interdisciplinary framework and powerful human stories they shed light on the social ills that governments have failed to address adequately including low wages child abuse elderly poverty and substandard housing One of the major forces behind the multidimensional welfare crises is the region s productivist welfare strategy which prioritizes economic growth while abandoning a robust social safety net leaving the most vulnerable segments of society largely unprotected Misery beneath the Miracle in East Asia brings the region into debates over the dangers of seeking growth at all costs that are currently embroiling the United States and other advanced industrialized countries

Long-Run Biological Interest Rate for Pay-As-You-Go Pensions in Advanced and Developing Countries Mr. Masahiro Nozaki, 2017-04-27 How much of an internal rate of return would a sustainable pay as you go pension system offer current and future generations equally The answer is the sum of the Long Run Biological Interest Rates LBIR the real world equivalent of Samuelson s 1958 biological interest rate and future productivity growth Reflecting global population ageing the median LBIR across 172 countries is as low as 1 percent per year The LBIRs are particularly low in advanced countries estimated to be negative in many of them and require ample financial reserves today or future productivity growth to maintain participation in pension schemes On the other hand the LBIRs in less developed regions such as in sub Saharan Africa are relatively high indicating a potential to use a pay as you go scheme to expand the coverage of public pensions Raising the retirement age by five years brings up the LBIR by 40 basis points significantly improving the long run budget constraint of a pension scheme
