Microprediction Peter Cotton, 2022-11-08 How a web scale network of autonomous micromanagers can challenge the AI revolution and combat the high cost of quantitative business optimization The artificial intelligence AI revolution is leaving behind small businesses and organizations that cannot afford in house teams of data scientists In Microprediction Peter Cotton examines the repeated quantitative tasks that drive business optimization from the perspectives of economics statistics decision making under uncertainty and privacy concerns He asks what things currently described as AI are not microprediction whether microprediction is an individual or collective activity and how we can produce and distribute high quality microprediction at low cost The world is missing a public utility he concludes while companies are missing an important strategic approach that would enable them to benefit and also give back In an engaging colloquial style Cotton argues that market inspired superminds are likely to be very effective compared with other orchestration mechanisms in the domain of microprediction He presents an ambitious yet practical alternative to the expensive artisan data science that currently drains money from firms Challenging the machine learning revolution and exposing a contradiction at its heart he offers engineers a new liberty no longer reliant on quantitative experts they are free to create intelligent applications using general purpose application programming interfaces APIs and libraries He describes work underway to encourage this approach one that he says might someday prove to be as valuable to businesses and society at large as the internet
