Tax Policy and the Environment
Mr.David C. L. Nellor,Mr.Ronald T. McMorran,1994-09-01 This paper provides a framework for examining environment taxes It reviews the theoretical efficiency of three types of environment taxes taxes on emissions or Pigouvian taxes taxes on productive inputs or consumer goods whose use is related to environmental damage and environment related provisions in other taxes A survey of environment taxes in 42 countries drawn from developing countries economies in transition and industrial countries illustrates that the use of environment taxes differs dramatically from the recommendations of environment tax theory This divergence between the theory and practice of environment taxes can be attributed to several factors environment taxes are difficult to implement there are many factors that impede their effectiveness and their introduction may be discouraged by their implications for other policy objectives Asset Prices and Time-Varying Risk

International Monetary Fund,1988-05-17 Observers have often characterized asset markets as being subject to periods of tranquility and periods of turbulence Until recently however researchers were unable to produce closed form asset pricing formulas in a model environment of time varying risk Some work by Abel provided us with the insights needed to produce such formulas This paper gives an exposition of how to develop the formulas in an environment where the formulas may be obtained using a simple extension of standard tools While the paper is intended mainly as an exposition of new work it also contains a report on the asset market effect of fiscal reform It is found that entering a period of weak coordination between government spending and taxing tax rate policy is good for stock prices Tax Policy Options for a United Germany

International Monetary Fund,1990-10-01 A central requirement in the rapid movement of German Democratic Republic GDR toward a market economy is the introduction of a market oriented tax system The paper highlights the main features of the traditional socialist tax structure of the GDR and the current tax structure of the Federal Republic of Germany FRG Arguments for an adequate short term tax reform in the GDR are developed in two scenarios contrasting the approach of taking over the FRG tax system adoption scenario and an autonomous tax reform in the GDR reform scenario Both scenarios recommend a flexible adjustment approach which anticipates the medium term development of the German tax system pursuant to domestic reform requirements international tax harmonization and fiscal federalism No More - Taking Back America

Locational Decisions, and Exchange Rates

International Monetary Fund,1989-06-05 The paper distinguishes between three different channels through which fiscal policy changes may be transmitted to exchange rates Based on both the balance of payments identity and empirical observations it is argued that trade balances and exchange rates may be quite responsive to changes in the relative attractiveness of locating production facilities or storing other taxable forms of wealth in different countries Recognition that fiscal policy has a major influence on asset location decisions may thus be very important for understanding the behavior of exchange rates The Capital Asset Pricing Model , The 1990 Reform of United Kingdom Local Authority Finance

International Monetary Fund,1990-07-01 In April 1990 the U K Government implemented the largest change to local authority finance in England and Wales since the postwar period It involves the introduction of a poll tax on domestic residents the centralization of local business taxes and an overhaul of Central Government grants This paper analyzes the effect of these reforms on local government and the wider economy FCC Record United States. through capital mobility among the industrial countries is a recent phenomenon and it is possible that the effect of domestic tax reform is dictated by international capital flows. The purpose of this paper is to examine whether the tax reform proposed recently in Japan satisfies the above principles in particular efficiency and equity and to investigate the effects not only on the real economy in Japan but also on capital outflows from Japan to abroad. Also the aging problem is examined briefly.
