rights in the face of growing industrial capitalism In The Fabric of Gender Helen Chenut paints a vivid picture of working life during these years by following four generations of laboring women and men in one community the textile town of Troyes in the Champagne region In Troyes workers were locked in an adversarial relationship with mill owners whose monopoly over the labor market in a single industry town largely determined the workers future And yet workers managed to create a counterculture of resistance by founding labor unions consumer cooperatives and socialist parties through which they were gradually able to implement change Women were key actors in this struggle as their garment making skills became increasingly important to the growing productivity of the knitted textile industry Drawing upon rich archival records oral histories and highly evocative illustrations Chenut tells a fascinating story of this fight for a social republic one in which both men and women had the right to work for a living wage and to partake in a consumer society The Fabric of Gender appears at a time when European labor historians are reexamining their field Chenut s innovative study of working class culture integrating gender class politics and consumption stands as a model for the expansion of labor history beyond traditional lines of inquiry Master The SAT Phil Pine,Margaret Moran,2009-06-15 Offers test taking strategies and includes six full length practice exams and study plans with practice drills Smart Shopping Montreal Sandra Phillips,1992
