Schumpeter s framework of creative destruction applied to the rapidly changing telecommunications and related Internet industries More than fifty years ago Joseph Schumpeter stated that processes intrinsic to a capitalist society produce a creative destruction whereby innovations destroy obsolete technologies only to be assaulted in turn by newer and more efficient rivals This book asks whether the current chaotic state of the telecommunications and related Internet industries is evidence of creative destruction or simply a result of firms governments and others wasting valuable resources with limited benefits to society as a whole In telecommunications for example wireless IP and cable based technologies are all fighting for a share of the market currently dominated by older circuit switched copper terminated networks This process is accompanied by mergers acquisitions bankruptcies and investment and divestment in worldwide markets The selections discuss the primary challenge facing firms governments and other players how to exploit the opportunities created by such destructive dynamics They highlight the importance of national regulations promoting competition and nonmonopolistic market structures as well as the role of new technologies such as the Internet in driving down the price and speeding the diffusion of innovative products and services in telecommunications media electronic retailing and other new economy industries Documents Accompanying the Journal of the House Michigan.
